Barboro selected as new trustee

Alfred J. Barboro Jr. was appointed Thursday night to the Arlington Heights Village Board to complete the term of Alice Harms, who resigned Jan. 19.

Barboro, 44, of 1543 N. Kennicott Ave., was selected from among eight candidates.

After eliminating six candidates on its first two ballots, it took the board four more rounds before a 4-4 deadlock between Barboro and former Village Pres. Ralph Clarbour was finally broken.

Barboro will be sworn in Monday at the board's next regular meeting. His term will expire in April 1977, but he said he plans to run for the board again in that election.

HE RAN unsuccessfully for the board last April as a Caucus candidate, finishing fifth among eight candidates with 5,076 votes.

Barboro currently serves as chairman of the village's youth council, is a member of the special committee now studying social services, and is vice president of the Hasbrook Civic Assn.

He is the owner and partner of Aetna Printers, Chicago.

At the beginning of Thursday's meeting, the board voted to use a tiered ballot system with all voting done by secret ballot.

Candidates Walter Maczka and Norman Breyer were eliminated on the first ballot when trustees were allowed to vote for three candidates. Mary Schlott, Raymond Warns, Victor Johnson and Mike Silverman were eliminated on the second ballot when trustees voted for only two of the six remaining candidates. The next three ballots resulted in both Barboro and Clarbour receiving four votes.

BEFORE THE final ballot was tallied, board members were given the chance to explain how they were voting. Trustees Frank Palmatier, David Griffin and August Bettman as well as Village Pres. James T. Ryan spoke in favor of Barboro. Only Trustee O. V. Anderson openly endorsed Clarbour.

On the final ballot, two votes were reversed to give Barboro a 6-to-2 edge.

Palmatier and Griffin said the main reasons they opposed Clarbour was his position against applying for community development funds the past two years.

Alfred J. Barboro Jr.

"Ralph Clarbour has done a great service for the village, but his adamant opposition to the village applying for federal funds, in particular community development funds, has been costly, though he's not solely responsible for it," Palmatier said. By not applying last year for the funds, the village forfeited its chance to apply for $495,000 in 1980, he said.

Ryan and Bettman said they favored Barboro because of the 5,076 votes he received in the last election.

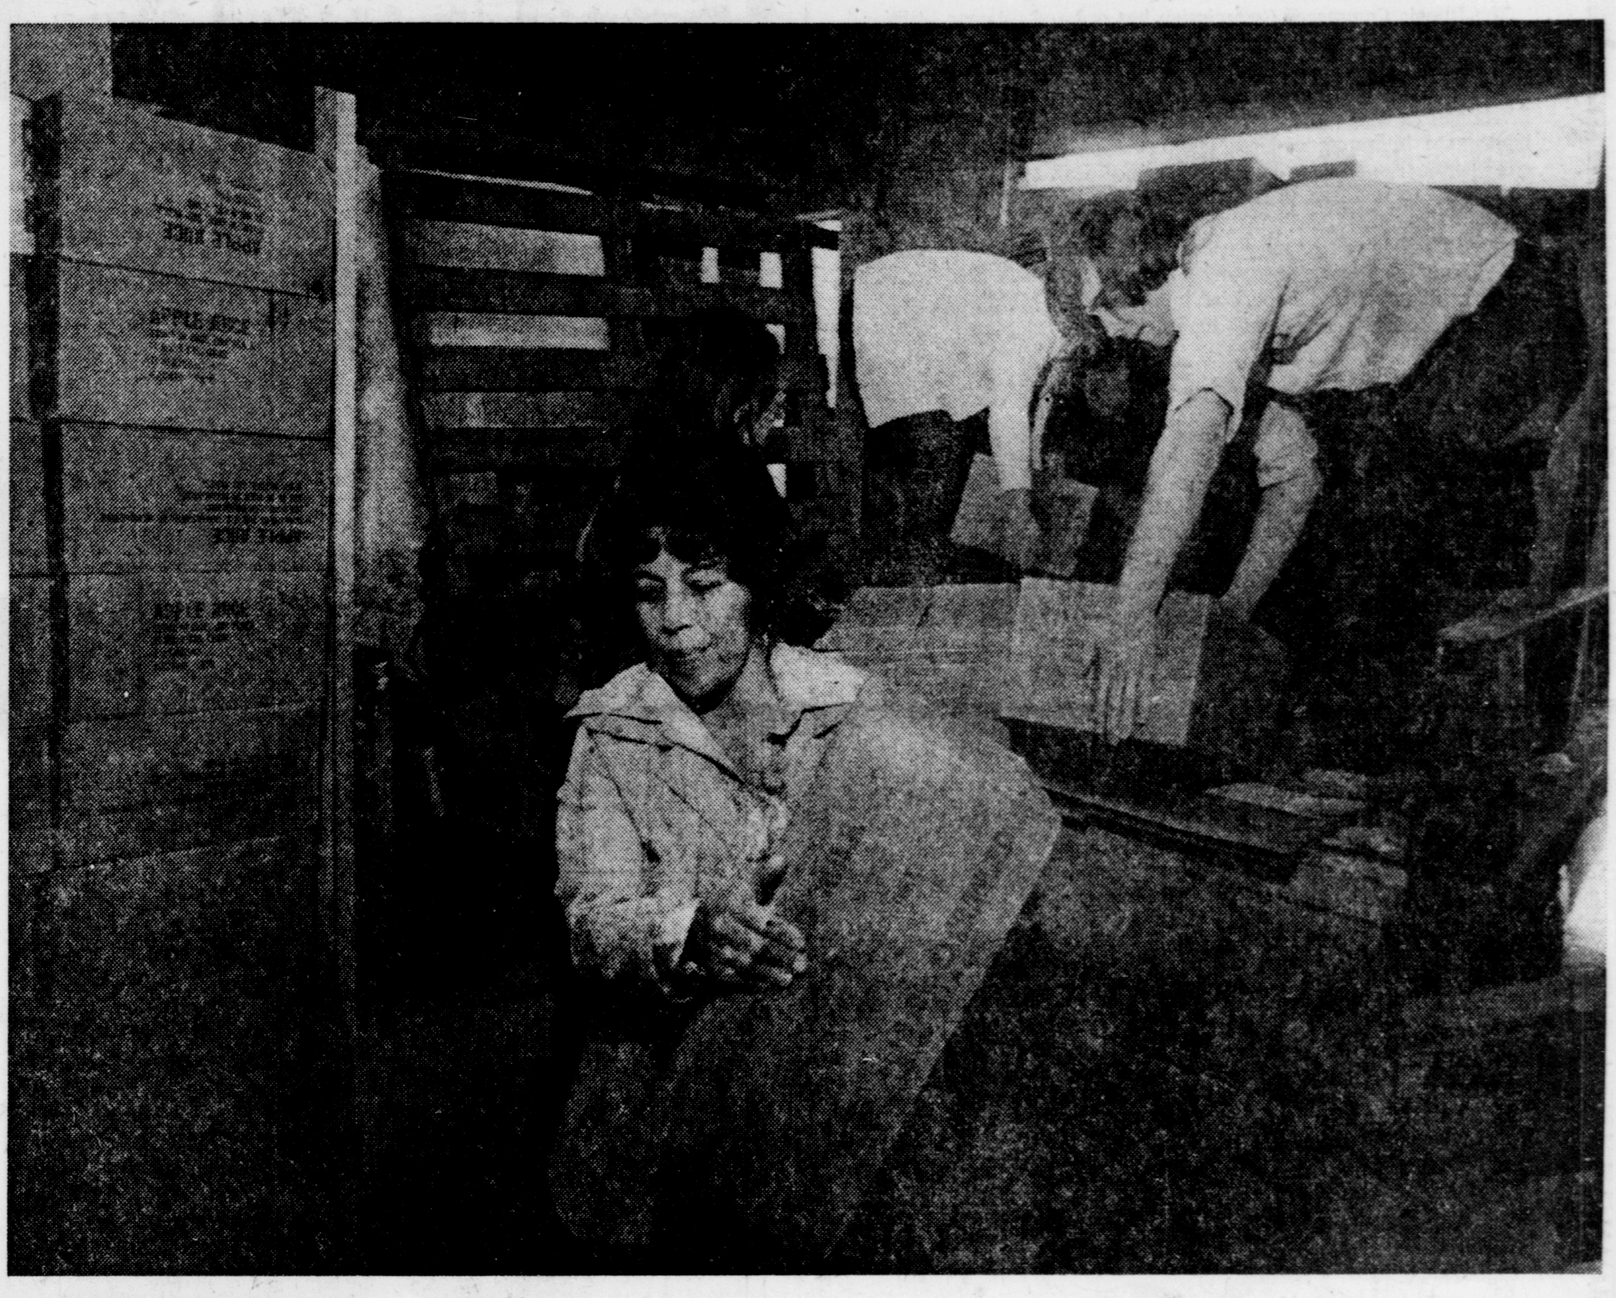

BARBORO AND Clarbour were praised by board members for their regular attendance at board and committee meetings.

During interviews conducted by the board Wednesday night, Barboro endorsed this year's decision to apply for community development funds, saying "we don't have to apologize for taking those funds. We have several justifiable projects where that money can be spent."

He opposes the Chicago Bears stadium proposal.

"I didn't hear enough in support of the stadium to override my concerns about what it might do to downgrade the residential way of life here," Barboro said.

High priority should be given soon to the drop of the water supply in the region, Barboro said.

WHAT COULD BE a last delivery of free food for low-income families is unloaded Thursday at the Northwest Opportunity Center, Arlington Heights. The agency must find a new volunteer to pick up the government surplus food once a month in Chicago and deliver it to Arlington Heights. A part of "Operation Nutrition," the food helps feed 526 Northwest suburban children. (Story on Page 12.)

Sirica suffers massive heart attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate Judge John J. Sirica collapsed with a heart attack while giving a luncheon speech Thursday. Electric shock was needed to get his heart working again.

By early evening, a doctor said the 71-year-old judge was "doing as well as one can hope" but was still in critical condition.

Sirica, who presided over the trial that convicted high Nixon administration officials of Watergate crimes, was taken unconscious to George Washington University Hospital, where the shock treatment was administered. A hospital spokesman said Siricia's heart was not beating when he arrived.

Sirica was addressing a luncheon of the George Washington University Law Alumni Club when he "just keeled over as if someone had knocked him out cold," witnesses said.

SIRICA FELL unconscious at 12:10 a.m. CST. He was at the hospital at 12:30 p.m. and, after electrical shock to his heart, was admitted to the coronary care unit in critical condition.

A hospital spokesman said, "At present, he is awake, able to speak and breath on his own. He appears to have suffered no neurological damage, as far as his doctors can tell. His blood pressure is normal and he does not require the support of medication."

Dr. Joel Gorfinkel, associate director of the coronary care unit, said, "All things considered, he is doing as well as one can hope for so soon after a massive heart attack with cardiac arrest." Gorfinkel said 24 to 48 hours after a massive heart attack are crucial.

SIRICA, A bulldog of a man physically and on the bench, presided over the major Watergate trials as chief U. S. district judge for the District of Columbia and was a key figure in exposing the coverup of White House involvement in the 1972 burglary at Democratic National Headquarters.

It was Sirica who was not satisfied

Expand suburb courts: judicial candidates

by WANDALYN RICE

Suburban residents should be able to have their wills probated, their divorces granted and their lawsuits tried in suburban courts, nine Republican Party-endorsed candidates for suburban Cook County Circuit Court judgeships said Thursday.

The nine candidates, who include Robert Sklodowski of Park Ridge, State Rep. Brian Duff, R-Wilmette, and Edward Hofert of Mount Prospect, told a press conference they want to see Chief Circuit Court Judge John Boyle expand the jurisdicton of the suburban courts to allow all kinds of cases there.

Currently, suburban courts are only allowed to handle traffic cases, civil suits involving $15,000 or less and some felony cases. All other court cases must be heard at the Civic Center or Criminal Courts Building in Chicago.

THE RESULT OF this policy is that 2.3 million suburban residents are "orphans of the court," Sklodowski said. "This is a denial of equal justice for the suburbs."

Sklodowski said he does not believe decentralizing the courts would substantially increase the costs of court operations.

"The court could lease facilities in the suburban area. We feel it would give us a more efficient system," he said.

Leased facilities eventually could be replaced by "mini-civic centers" which could be built in various suburban areas, he said. The county has just opened a mini-center in west suburban Maywood.

In addition to a general expansion of the cases handled by suburban courts, Duff said the judicial candidates favor putting juvenile courts and detention facilities in the suburbs.

A committee of Northwest suburban officials is working on a proposal for a branch juvenile court in the Northwest suburbs which will be presented to Boyle.

"MANY SUBURBAN police officers will make a 'station adjustment' for juveniles because they know the problems of taking the juvenile downtown," Duff said. A station adjustment is an out-out-of-court handling of a case by local police, juvenile authorities and parents.

Sklodowski said decentralized courts have worked in Los Angeles County, where 162 courts have full jurisdiction.

"We believe the decentralized courts are compatible with centralized administration," Sklodowski said. "We believe they could cut down on backlog and inefficiency."

Hofert said running full courts in the suburbs would also mean "citizens would have a chance to walk into the courts and see what is going on."

"We are styled as the circuit court of Cook County and in history, the court used to travel," Hofert said. "Mr. Lincoln and other lawyers used to get on their horses and take the court around. We want to return to the historical tradition."

In addition to Sklodowski, Duff and Hofert, the GOP-endorsed candidates for suburban judgeships are Themis N. Anastos of Morton Grove, Judge John Nordberg of Golf, Donald E. Joyce of River Forest, Richard J. Petrarca of Flossmoor, Romie J. Palmer of Blue Island and George M. Marovich of South Holland.

The nine are running against six independent Republican candidates in the March 16 primary. They will face a Democratic slate in November.

2 cars slip off rails; thousands delayed

The derailment Thursday morning of two cars of a Chicago and North Western Ry. passenger train near its downtown station caused delays of up to 45 minutes for thousands of commuters. No one was hurt. A spokesman for the railroad said the empty train derailed at Lake and Clinton streets, Chicago, as it pulled out of the station to go to the yards. The derailed cars blocked switches on four inbound tracks, causing delays on the railroad's Northwest, North and West lines, the spokesman said. The cause of the derailment was unknown. Normal service was restored by the evening rush hour.

Utility ordred to improve service

The Illinois Commerce Commission has ordered Citizens Utilities Co. to improve the quality of water and service to its 6,800 Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights customers. In an eight-page order, the ICC outlined corrective measures after completing a 14-month investigation. The order said evidence indicates low-quality water, inadequate billing procedures and unresponsiveness to customer complaints. The ICC's orders come several days after a request by the utility to increase water rates 70 per cent and sewer service rates 100 per cent. The panel will begin hearings on the rate increase requests later this month. Among the corrective measures ordered are: monitoring of water quality; a corrosion study aimed at controling rust and impurities in water; and submission to the ICC of all reported customer complaints.

Freight derails in Des Plaines

Twelve cars of a 94-car freight train derailed Thursday on the Chicago and North Western Ry. outer belt tracks south of Oakton Street in Des Plaines. No one was injured. A C&NW spokesman said the train, a Milwaukee Road R.R. freight, was traveling about 10 miles per hour when the cars slipped off the tracks at 12:35 p.m. Workers were still on the scene late Thursday replacing 300 feet of track. Des Plaines police said the derailed train blocked crossings at Oakton and Howard streets for about 30 minutes before workers disconnected the train to allow motorists through.

NW Council weighs Napowan sale

'Save Scout camp,' leaders urge

An overflow crowd of more than 250 people at Union Oil Co. headquarters in Schaumburg Thursday night called on the Boy Scouts Northwest Suburban Council not to sell its 313-acre Camp Napowan in Wild Rose, Wis.

During the public hearing, troop leaders from throughout the Northwest suburban council criticized the proposal to sell Camp Napowan for financial reasons and said the council's second camp, Namokagon, 400 miles north of the Chicago area, would be too far for regular use.

Council executives presented figures showing a $22,000 deficit for 1975 operations.

THE COST OF opening Camp Napowan in the summer would be an additional $13,000, they said.

If Camp Napowan was sold to a Wisconsin land developer the council would net approximately $200,000, officials said.

Members of the audience, however, said the council's financial problems should be secondary to the availability of the camp and its suitability for younger scouts.

Noting Camp Napowan is used by Cub and Webelos scouts, Paul Shroeder of the Sauk Woods district said. "If we discourage them at that level we will not get them in scouting."

The 1,165-acre Camp Namokagon is twice as far away as Camp Napowan.

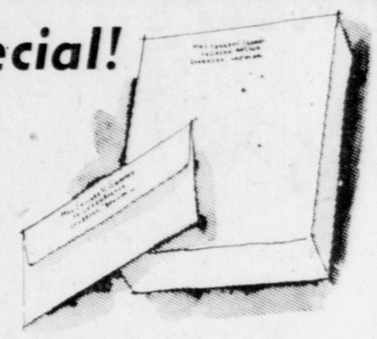

THE MOST ENTHUSIASTIC response from the crowd was given to Bob Melko, an Eagle Scout advisor who presented council directors with petitions signed by 1,800 adult volunteers, and a $1,300 check intended to help save Napowan.

"Put the boy back in Boy Scouts of America and the Northwest Suburban Council," Melko said, and received a standing ovation from the scouters and their parents.

Robert Clich, president of the council, said the board has not made a final decision on whether to sell the camp. A board meeting was set for Feb. 24 to decide the matter.

Sirica suffers massive heart attack

Judge John Sirica

with the original Watergate trial and who pressed for the full story to be told. James McCord responded with a letter saying there was more to Watergate than a mere break-in and Sirica used that letter to unravel the biggest political scandal in U. S. history.

Sirica was on the bench Jan. 1, 1975 when John Mitchell, H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and Robert Mardian were found guilty of Watergate crimes.

A. I. Perez, counsel for the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund, said Sirica collapsed suddenly before 300 guests at the speakers rostrum of the luncheon in Washington's Army-Navy Club.

"He was speaking, gave a few witticisms about lawyers which was to relate to main thesis, ethical problems faced by lawyers," Perez said.

"He had started into the main body of the speech but stopped in midsentence and just keeled over as if someone had knocked him out cold.

"People at the dias half caught him and lowered him to the floor. There was no clutching of the chest, no gasping for air, no bending over, no nothing. He just keeled over."

Sirica retired as chief U. S. district judge in March, 1974, but he remained on the district bench and presided over last year's Watergate coverup trial.

That was the last of the Watergate courtroom battles that transformed an obscure federal judge named John J. Sirica into a national celebrity — widely praised as the man who pried the lid off the Watergate coverup and damned by civil libertarian lawyers for the pugnacious, high-pressure tactics he used to get the truth out of defendants involved.

From the beginning, when E. Howard Hunt, G. Gordon Liddy and the other original seven Watergate defendants were coming up for trial in what seemed to be a titillating burglary case in 1972, Sirica bored in looking for cracks in their stories, asking questions and doubting the answers.

"I don't believe you," he bluntly told one defendant.

He pronounced tough provisional sentences and sometimes dangled prospects of leniency as an inducement to the seven to tell more about who was behind the burglary operation. While many professional attorneys cried foul, Sirica dug and dug in this way until one man, James W. McCord, wrote Sirica saying trial witnesses perjured themselves to protect higher ups, that "others" had escaped capture and that "political pressure" had been brought on him and the others to keep their mouths shut."

Entire Guatemala villages wiped out; toll near 3,000

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (UPI) — Red Cross officials said Thursday night that rescue teams have found entire mountain villages buried in Wednesday's earthquake and that the death toll had climbed to "between 2,500 and 3,000" and still was rising.

There were growing fears that the 3,000 figure was too conservative an estimate. Officials said all 1,500 inhabitants of the village of Paramos 35 miles west of Guatemala City might have been killed, and a ham radio operator reported to a missionary group in Texas that 1,000 persons had died in Tecpan, a village of 1,500 persons 60 miles northwest of the capital.

Guatemalans used bulldozers Thursday to bury victims in mass graves without formality in some of the villages but said this was more of a matter of expediency than from a threat of epidemics — there were just too many victims to dig individual graves.

Helicopters and ambulances were bringing a constant stream of severely injured persons to Guatemala City, adding to a medical crisis so grave that doctors who have worked almost nonstop since the predawn quake Wednesday were performing emergency operations in makeshift tents while other victims lay in the open on cots or pallets.

Jose Alvarado, Red Cross General Director in Guatemala, told UPI that "whole towns are being found that were buried and many more bodies are being discovered." Asked for a death toll he said, "Between 2,500 and 3,000. The number is still rising."

"There is no danger of an epidemic at this point caused by rotting bodies," he said.

The situation in Guatemala City was eased some Thursday night when grocery stores reopened, giving residents their first food in two days. Water service was restored Thursday night and the electricity service was functioning except for intermittent blackouts in various parts of the city.

Guatemalan President Kjell Laugerud Garcia told newsmen earlier this evening there had been only 800 confirmed deaths but as more and more reports came in of widespread devastation he called Wednesday's quake in the outlying areas worse than the December 1972 earthquake which killed 10,000 persons in Managua, Nicaragua.

"The earthquake of Managua was much more serious in the capital city. But the panorama in the departments of our interior was Danteque," he said. "It was worse than the earthquake of Managua in that sense."

Jaime Caceres, Vice Minister of Communications and Public Works, said roads leading to the Atlantic Ocean remain impassible but that work is moving swiftly on "CA-1, the main highway to the Pacific and that it is possible to reach the Pacific by using detours.

Caceres said ministry workers were attempting to restore electricity to blacked out areas in the countryside and that hospitals and emergency facilities were receiving priority emergency power. Many areas do not even have provisional power, he said.

President Laugerud said Guatemala would not ask for aid from other countries until a disaster evaluation survey has been completed — "We do not want to abuse the kindness of other nations."

"What has entered the country and what we still are asking for are medicines, — all types of medicines," he said.

The injured brought in Wednesday from villages nestled in the mountains around Guatemala City added to a medical crisis so grave that doctors were performing emergency operations in makeshift tents. They said they were running desperately short of blood plasma and medicine.

Promises of help poured in from throughout the world but so far only a small amount of aid has actually arrived.

COFFINS ARE CARRIED up hill to town cemetery in San Pedro, Guatemala, one of the hardest-hit towns when an earthquake struck Wednesday. The death toll continues to rise.

Beirut peace jolted by kidnapings

BEIRUT, Leganon (UPI) — A rash of kidnapings and the mutilation-slaughter of three Palestinians jolted the two-week-old Lebanese cease-fire Thursday, raising fears revenge violence that fueled the 10-month-long civil war would return.

Police said at least seven persons were abducted by unknown gunmen in shell-pocked downtown Beirut. Within minutes, the few reopened shops in the area shut down.

The Palestinian news agency WAFA said the bodies of a father and his two sons were discovered on the road to the Palestinian refugee camp of Tal Zaatar.

The bodies had been mutilated, the agency said.

"The crime gave an indication of the hatred of the isolationists right-wing Christians for the Palestinians and all other so-called 'outsiders,'" WAFA said.

Police said efforts were under way through the Lebanese-Syrian-Palestinian truce committee to secure the release of the captives and arrest the truce violators.

During the war, such violence touched off counter-abductions and killings and helped scuttle more than two dozen cease-fires.

Patty's jury shown movies of Hibernia bank robbery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Patricia Hearst trial courtroom was converted briefly into a darkened theater Thursday and the jury saw action movies of the Hibernia bank robbery with the heiress center stage and holding a carbine.

The jerky, poorly lighted film from two bank surveillance cameras was projected on a large screen illustrating 80 seconds of the holdup.

Donald DeFreeze, the "field marshal general Cinque" of the Symbionese Liberation Army, and three other women were shown waving weapons, leaping a teller's counter, threatening customers and holding a bank guard with hands up.

Miss Hearst appeared in the movie waving her gun briefly. At most times she was ringed by the other SLA members in the bank lobby.

The defense contends she had been warned by the SLA terrorists that she would be killed on the spot if she "messed around." The prosecution case is that she was there voluntarily and uttered threatening curses.

Shortly after the film was projected, the bank guard, Eden Shea, 69, pointed his finger across the courtroom at the 21-year-old, auburn-haired defendant and identified her as one who pointed her gun at him and told customers and employes in the bank:

"The first one that moves I'll blow his m——f—— head off."

Veteran criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey immediately went on the offensive.

Bailey quickly established that the day after the April 15, 1974, robbery Shea was shown pictures from which he identified DeFreeze but was not able to identify the four women — who turned out to be Miss Hearst, Camilla Hall, Nancy Ling Perry and Patricia Soltysik.

Shea was asked when he first realized the female who uttered the obscenities was the defendant in the case.

The bank guard said it was some time later when he saw the movie of the bank robbery on his televison set.

"Do you have a hearing problem?" Bailey asked.

"Yes," replied Shea.

The lawyer had the movie rerun in an attempt to show that Shea mistook either Nancy Ling Perry, who later shot and wounded two customers, or Camilla Hall as the woman who uttered the obscenities and forced him to hold up his hands.

On the first day of testimony in the trial, Shea was followed by James Norton, a hospital recreational therapist, who said he was a customer at a teller's counter when the group broke in. He said he saw DeFreeze push Shea against a wall and announce:

"We're from the SLA. We're not kidding. This is Patty Hearst."

Norton said everyone was forced to lie down on the floor. He said at first he thought maybe they were making a TV movie. He said a sequence from "The Streets of San Francisco" had been made recently at his hospital and he thought perhaps that was what was occurring.

"But then he said Miss Hearst told him to "get down on the ground or I'll blow your . . ."

Norton stammered and could not force himself to utter the obscenity. The judge told him to continue but eliminate the word and he did so.

The first of an anticipated 40 to 50 witnesses to be called by U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr. was the bank manager, James E. Smith, a grey-haired man in his 50s wearing a neat business suit.

Smith said he had just had a cup of coffee in a snack room on the bank mezzanine when he heard a woman yelling in the lobby below.

The manager said he walked out and looked down through a one-way glass screen and realized a holdup was underway. He said he pushed two buttons which activated an alarm and started up the two surveillance cameras.

The pictures showed the robbers entering the branch office in this order — Nancy Ling Perry, DeFreeze, Camilla Hall, Patricia Soltysik, and then Miss Hearst last. Miss Hearst moved to the center of the lobby and stood there where the others were more active.

Miss Soltysik vaulted over the counter, scooped up $10,690, and jumped back again. Then they filed out — Hall, Soltysik, Perry, DeFreeze and Miss Hearst.

Testimony linked JFK to plots: Goldwater

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Thursday sworn testimony was presented to a Senate committee indicating President John F. Kennedy was involved in plans to assassinate Fidel Castro, but the witnesses later changed their stories. Goldwater said the committee heard witnesses, "who under oath said the Kennedys (the President and Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy) were involved, and also that other presidents were involved. The witnesses then changed their minds.

House votes to extend natural gas control

The House voted narrowly Thursday to extend federal controls over most of the country's natural gas production but a leading advocate of complete deregulation predicted a presidential veto. The Senate has approved a widely differing bill. Differences in the two bills would be worked out by a conference committee from both houses.

Ford signs railroad aid measure

President Ford Thursday signed a $6.4 billion railroad aid bill as the first step in "an historic endeavor" to revitalize the nation's transportation systems. The legislation clears the way starting April 1 for the merger of seven bankrupt Northeastern and Midwestern railroads into the government-planned Consolidated Rail Corp. or ConRail.

Consumer group asks recall of Vegas

A consumer group Thursday asked the government to recall millions of 1971-76 Chevrolet Vegas on the grounds they use excessive amounts of oil and are polluting the atmosphere. Environmental Protection Agency officials, however, said their tests indicate the cars are not in violation of clean air laws. The Automobile Owners Action Council said ". . . although properly maintained and used, a substantial number of the vehicles . . . consume an excessive amount of oil and, as a result, release an unacceptable amount of pollutant substances into the atmosphere . . ."

Bensinger OKd as Drug Enforcement Chief

The Senate Thursday unanimously confirmed Peter B. Bensinger as the new administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration DEA. Bensinger, who has been acting DEA administrator since late January, replaces John R. Bartels Jr., who resigned last summer. Bensinger has held a variety of law enforcement positions in Illinois from 1969 to the present. Most recently, he was an assistant Illinois attorney general in charge of the office's crime victims division.

Intelligence watchdog unit voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Intellignce Committee, which expires within a week, Thursday unanimously voted to recommend establishment of a permanent panel to oversee American intelligence and covert activities.

The proposed "House Select Intellignce Committee" would have "exclusive jurisdiction for budget authorization for all intelligence activites and for all covert action" and would oversee agencies of the U.S. intelligence community.

Rep. Robert Giaimo, D-Conn., said "the only way we'll get adequate oversight will be to get an adequate committee" not under the influence of existing bodies whose performance had been disgraceful."

"Don't forget," Giaimo said, "we are dealing with intelligence agencies who use dirty tricks, dissembling, lying. There is no end they will not go to to prevent oversight."

Chairman Frank Church of the Senate Select Intelligence Committee, meanwhile, called for a special prosecutor to investigate and prosecute crimes committed by the FBI and CIA.

The Idaho Democrat urged in a Senate speech the office of the Watergate special prosecutor be modified to pursue crimes uncovered during the year-long investigations of the intelligence community.

Members of the proposed House panel would be designated by the speaker after consultation with the minority leader and have the same ratio of Democrats and Republicans as the House. The present committee goes out of existence Feb. 11.

The new group would function similarly to three other House subcommittees with oversight authority — from the Armed Services, Appropriations and International Relations committees.

Three comparable Senate subcommittees also monitor intelligence activities. Church, whose committee's mandate expires Feb. 29, has suggested a permanent Senate panel.

If approved, that would mean eight congressional committees to which the intelligence community would report, although any permanent House and Senate bodies would have greater powers.

The House Intelligence Committee Thursday voted 7 to 5 to recommend legislation prohibting "all activities involving direct or indirect attempts to assassinate any individuals and all paramilitary activities . . . except in time of war."

In other political news: Alabama Gov. George Wallace, continuing to run far ahead of fellow Democratic presidential aspirants in terms of campaign money, Thursday received a record $1.65 million in federal matching campaign funds. It was the largest single payment to a candidate by the Treasury, and brought Wallace's total of taxpayer-provided cash to nearly $2.2 million.

John Coleman catches the hardest knocks

by MIKE KLEIN

Some well-deserved hard knocks, please, for John Coleman and his fabled Weather Experience at WLS-TV.

That's because Coleman with his Wednesday time space, put Chicagoland on shock watch by issuing massive snow predictions.

Then nothing happened.

And wasn't Coleman feeling just a bit sheepish Thursday afternoon. Perhaps a little mad, too.

WEDNESDAY, EVENING, on Channel 7's late night news, Coleman predicted "A BIG STORM" of 10 or more inches. But only flakiness struck Chicagoland.

Coleman's prediction ran directly against the grain of forecasts from WBBM's John Coughlin (Channel 2), WMAQ's Jim Tilmon (5) and WGN's Harry Volkman (9).

That trio each forecast snow, too, but none saw more than four inches.

Coleman was a bit perturbed at questions about his loud misfire. But give the man some credit. He would talk.

"That's the only time the press ever notices, if I miss," Coleman told The Herald.

"You're the baddies in the world in my book. If I hit the forecast straight for a month, you could care less," Coleman said. And he wasn't kidding, either.

HE CLAIMED the non-storm was "like horseshoes, a near miss." Heavy ice accumulation did develop throughout central and southern portions of Illinois and Indiana.

Numerous traveling delays were reported Thursday across both states. Flights were delayed from airports in those two states plus Missouri. And some long distance bus routes were canceled.

But there wasn't any 10 inches of snow in Chicago.

Tilmon of WMAQ came closest Wednesday. He said there would be no more accumulation than three inches and very possibly less.

So the question becomes: How could there have been such a great difference in forecasting the weather on television? Could it have been the new television news rating period, which began Wednesday?

"I'm not saying that," Tilmon said with regard to Coleman's errant forecast. "We don't get excited or panic (at WMAQ) for the sake of a rating period.

"The weather is of such great importance that it must be done accurately and made understandable at all times," Tilmon said.

"This is a very important responsibility which we guard very carefully," said Tilmon who's also a commercial airline pilot. "I have a difficult time laughing about weather."

The general outlook for today according to the weatherman, is some flakiness and partly cloudy conditions with temperatures possibly falling near zero tonight.

A western snow front could move into Illinois during the weekend. But as even Coleman told his viewers Thursday, "The way things are going today . . . I wouldn't begin to predict that storm will hit us."

'75 safest driving year in U.S. history: council

The year 1975 was the safest year on the basis of miles driven for motor vehicle travel in U.S. history, the National Safety Council reported Thursday.

Preliminary statistics showed the mileage death rate dropped to 3.5 fatalities per 100 million vehicle miles traveled, the lowest rate during the 52 years the NSC has kept records.

The 1974 mileage death rate was 3.6 fatalities per 100 million vehicle miles.

The council said there were 45,600 traffic fatalities in 1975, making it the safest since 1963 when there were 43,564 traffic deaths. The 1974 figure was 46,200 fatalities.

State scholarship aid cut

The Illinois State Scholarship Commission has decided to make a 6 per cent cut in aid funds provided for student tuition and fees at 180 Illinois colleges and universities, an official said Thursday.

Joseph Boyd, executive director of the commission, said the 6 per cent reduction was on an annual basis and would amount to 12 per cent on a semester basis or 18 per cent for a third quarter.

Boyd said reduction would average $45 and range from a low of $6 to an absolute high of $90. It will be handled, Boyd said, "by crediting slightly less against each student's tuition account" at the individual schools.

Rarest stamp nets $80,000

The "Black Honduras," billed as the world's rarest airmail stamp, has been sold for a price in excess of $80,000, an Evanston stamp dealer said Thursday. Jered Johnson, a dealer for Chandler's Inc. of Evanston, said the stamp had been sold "between two private parties" who asked not to be identified.

He said the nation of Honduras issued only four copies of the stamp originally in 1925 and the "Black Honduras" is the only known copy of the stamp.

Bed blaze kills 3 children

Burning bedclothes in an apartment killed three children Thursday, authorities reported.

The Cook County coroner's office identified the dead as Janet Romero, 4, and her brothers, Robert, 2, and Daniel 1. The children were pronounced dead of smoke inhalation at St. Mary Hospital.

The fire broke out in the second-floor apartment on Chicago's near Northwest Side when a heater apparently fell on a bed and ignited bedclothes and a mattress, Police Sgt. Francis Higgins said.

NSSEO panel rejects 8% raise for teachers

A proposed 8 per cent raise for eight teachers in the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization teachers union was rejected by the NSSEO governing board.

The teachers have filed grievances with the board claiming they received little or no raises this year when NSSEO changed from a merit system of increases to a salary schedule, said Jean Shartow, vice-president of the union.

"Our salaries were frozen because of our experience," Ms. Shartow said. "We had received merit raises every year, and then when the salary schedule came along, we were frozen."

BOARD MEMBER Jean Fisler, representing High School Dist. 211, proposed the board "give one time 8 per cent salary raises to these teachers retroactive to the beginning of the school year."

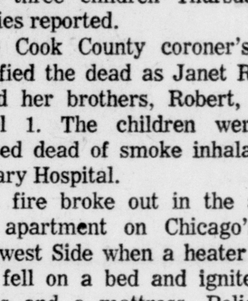

The proposal was defeated 3 to 7 with no discussion. Mrs. Fisler, Walter Kendall from Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, and Irwin Poklacki from Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 supported the proposal. Margaret Pageler from Schaumburg Township Dist. 54, Dee Wells from Prospect Heights Dist. 23, Richard Soby from Arlington Heights Dist. 25, Susan Rose from Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21, Edith Freund from Mount Prospect Dist. 57, Peggy Golden from River Trails Dist. 26 and Arthur Aronson from High School Dist. 214 voted no.

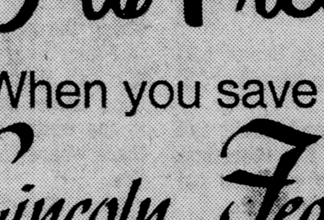

"I was hopeful for a better outcome, but I wasn't surprised," Ms. Shartow said.

NSSEO operates special education programs for 10 Northwest suburban elementary and high school districts.

Lake Arlington plan gets backing

The Village of Arlington Heights has received encouragement for its $10.4 million Lake Arlington project from the Des Plaines River Basin Steering Committee.

The committee voted 6-1 this week to give tentative endorsement to the plan. The motion charged that the U.S. Soil Conservation Service "has not adequately justified" its opposition to the village's plan to resolve flooding -problems along McDonald Creek.

Instead of the 113-acre lake, the Soil Conservation Service and the Army Corps of Engigneers have proposed digging a diversionary overflow ditch five feet deep along a southern branch of the creek. Estimated cost of the channel is $359,000, compared to $10.4 million for the lake project.

The Soil Conservation Service must be convinced to include the Lake Arlington proposal in its Des Plaines River Watershed Plan if the Village of Arlington Heights is to receive state and federal funds for construction of the project.

OFFICIALS FROM Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights agreed Thursday that the steering committee's resolution was an encouraging step in their uphill battle to gain acceptance of the lake plan.

Officials from Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights agreed Thursday that the steering committee's resolution was an encouaging step in their uphill battle to gain acceptance of the lake plan.

"The (steering committee's) motion seems to say they don't believe the Soil Conservation Service has given the Lake Arlington project adequate consideraton," said Arlington Heights Administrative Asst. James Holzwart.

"It is a recognition of the problem as it exists and shows they doubt whether the Soil Conservation Service's proposal is adequate to service both upstream and downstream," said Arlington Heights Village Engr. Allen Sander. He termed it "a tentative endorsement."

JOHN GILLIGAN, vice chairman of the steering committee and vice president of the Prospect Heights Improvement Assn., objected to the soil service's method of deciding whether Lake Arlington is needed.

"The flooding problem in this area was underestimated by the soil service," Gilligan said Thursday. 'They did not take some damage figures into account that we feel they should have.

Gilligan also objected to the Soil Conservation Service's decision to limit the Des Plaines Watershed Plan to five square miles.

THE PROPOSED site for Lake Arlington north of Palatine Road and east of Windsor Drive is on the upper edge of that five-square-mile area.

"That is an arbitrary decision. Our position is that the entire watershed should be planned for," Gilligan said. "I think they should go farther up the creek. Had they used more realistic damage figures, they would have been able to justify doing more."

Arlington Heights officials have predicted that Lake Arlington will be delayed for a long time if state and federal funds are not received to help pay construction costs.

Lake hookup to cost $29 million

It will cost five area suburbs $29 million plus land costs to obtain Lake Michigan water through a hookup with Chicago's water system.

An engineering study based its estimate on the cost of constructing a pipeline from Chicago pumping facilities and a storage tank at the Chicago end of the system.

The study was prepared for SHARE, composed of Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village.

THE STUDY, prepared by the firm of Greeley and Hanson, does not include the cost of extending the system to Mount Prospect, which has been committed to joining SHARE and Palatine, which is considering joining.

The study also does not estimate the required improvements to local water systems that could run "in the millions," according to Allen Sander, Arlington Heights village engineer.

Sander was one of more than a dozen officials from 6 of the seven towns involved who attended a meeting in Elk Grove Village. Rolling Meadows was unrepresented.

The session was for officials to decide how to continue efforts to acquire Lake Michigan water.

At the meeting, Elmer Balloti, of Greeley and Hanson, said the $29 million was "a figure that is realistic, not optimistic or how cheaply we can do it."

HE SUGGESTED the communities work next to "firm up" the studies and available data.

"It would be five years, starting from tonight, until the day you turned the faucet on," Balloti said.

"There's a lot of work in planning to be done," he said.

Elk Grove Village Mgr. Charles A. Willis said Chicago is interested in selling water to the Northwest suburbs, although it cannot make a commitment until lake water allocations have been determined.

Those allocations are now scheduled to be set by early next year, Sander said.

"The reports we have received show in a nutshell the city is interested in entering a sales contract," Willis said.

IT WAS SUGGESTED each community contribute $5,000 as "seed money" to be used to hire engineering consultants and an attorney for the effort.

The village presidents and managers of the seven communities will meet Wednesday to discuss further organization of the effort.

Several officials, including Sander, favored a water commission being formed, one that could work with the existing DAMP commission, a similar organization representing Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

No decision was made, however, on how the water system would operate.

Village vandalism unit named

A 19-member committee on vandalism has been named and approved by the Arlington Heights Village Board.

The committee, chaired by Trustee Robert Miller, includes representatives from the library, churches, police department, schools and park district, in addition to private citizens.

The call for the committee was issued by Miller following a $100,000 attack on two local schools over the Christmas holidays.

NAMED TO THE committee were: Frank Dempsey, head librarian Arlington Heights Memorial Library; Richard Nickelsen, principal of North School; Mae Zimmanck, the Rev. Robert O. Bartz, St. Peter Lutheran Church; Richard Rademacher; Arthur Gollberg, former park commissioner; Carol Grimm, and Donna Wojdula.

Others named to the committee include: Ethel Pioro; A. O. Garcia; Ronald Giusti; Ann Grasemann; C. Marshall Smith; Pauline Buss; Lt. Paul Buckholz, head of the police juvenile bureau; Kay Muller, former park district vice president; David Bishop, of the Northwest Suburban Council of the Boy Scouts; and Angello Capulli, park district superintendent of maintenance.

A member of the vllage youth council will be named to the committee at a later date.

A preliminary report to the village board should be ready in about two months, he said. A final report is expected by summer, Miller said.

"We can really get going on this if we don't get bogged down in details. The longer we stall around, the less we are going to get done," he said.

The organizational meeting of the committee will be held Feb. 12 at the village municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd. The meeting, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., is open to the public.

Township wrapup

$14,800 reported in welfare fund

Elk Grove Township welfare funds continue to meet current assistance needs. despite earlier predictions that funds will run out by March.

Township Supervisor Richard M. Hall said only $3,500 was paid out in the general-assistance account during January, while $2,700 in tax receipts was received. He said the fund now has a balance of $14,800 for February and March, the remaining two months of the fiscal year.

Declines in the general-assistance rolls during the past few months have been credited for the reduction in payouts, which were high early last year.

$46,619 revenue-sharing check

The township received its quarterly federal revenue-sharing check for $49,619, plus $147 interest.

Openings on mental health panel

The township is looking for three persons to serve on its mental health commitiee. Interested persons should call the township at 437-0300.

Branch of juvenile court favored

The township board passed a resolution in support of the decentralization of the Cook County Juvenile Court, as requested by the Northwest Municipal Conference. Officials hope to move the facilities from Niles to Schaumburg.

The board also passed a motion expressing its interest in joining the Northwest Municipal Conference, now made up of 16 area municipalities.

Three officials honored

The township board passed three resolutions of appreciation for former employes and officials. They were for Walter R. Bartley, former auditor; Frances C. Altenburg, former deputy tax assessor; and Margaret I. Blaschke. former general-assistance director.

SARGENT SHRIVER made several campaign appearances in the Chicago area Thursday, predicting he will make a strong showing in Illinois' March 16 primary and proving he has support in the Midwest.

Shriver pursues power base in state primary

by STEVE BROWN

Democratic presidential candidate Sargent Shriver Thursday predicted the outcome of Illinois' March 16 primary will show he has a "strong base of support in the Midwest as well as New England."

Shriver called the primary a "big factor" in his Presidential bid, but stopped short of predicting a total victory or saying Illinois would either make or break his campaign.

The 60-year-old Massachusetts resident said he sees the Illinois presidential preference primary as more important than trying to win delegates, because the so-called beauty contest will "show what the people want." He noted the delegates elected here are not bound to any candidate.

Shriver's observations on the primary came while he met with reporters prior to a $100-a-plate dinner for about 120 persons at the Drake Hotel.

HE ALSO INSISTED that he does not plan to go around before the March vote to ask Illinois Democratic leaders, including Mayor Richard Daley, to please "back me."

He said a strong showing in Illinois would be persuasive evidence that Daley and other Democratic leaders should support him.

The 1972 Democratic vice presidential candidate did predict that two or three of the 10 Democratic presidential contenders will emerge as frontrunners in the primary.

He discounted the theory that the party would nominate a candidate who did not enter the primaries.

After the press conference, Shriver ducked a reporter's question about his position on abortion. He referred the reporters to his abortion position paper. However, a campaign aide said she did not know whether Shriver's position paper was available in Illinois.

SHRIVER, A Catholic has said he opposes abortion on demand, but has not come out in favor of a constitutional amendment on banning abortions, something demanded by right-to-life groups. About six picketers walked outside the Drake calling for Shriver to adopt a position favoring the amendment.

The brother-in-law of U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass, Shriver has strong ties to Illinois. He served as president of the Chicago Board of Education from 1955 to 1960 and before that managed the Merchandise Mart.

Besides the dinner appearance in Chicago, Shriver spent time earlier in the day meeting with Democratic leaders and delegate candidates in Waukegan and talking to high school students in Niles.

He is scheduled to deliver what is being billed as a "major address on economic and international affairs" today before the Chicago Council on Foreign Affairs.

Ford backers to open area office

Supporters of President Ford will open his 12th Congressional District office Sunday in Mount Prospect.

Ex-Illinois Gov. Richard Ogilvie will attend the grand opening ceremonies, which will be held from 3 to 6 p.m. at 133 W. Prospect Ave., Mount Prospect.

John Woods, chairman of the Ford campaign in the 12th District, said the event will kick-off the President's campaign in the area.

Besides Ogilvie, candidates seeking election as delegates to the Republican National Convention will be at the event.

One of those delegates, William J. Heffernan, Thursday disputed published reports the Ford campaign in Illinois is in trouble.

"I am finding that people support the President as I get out and talk to them," Heffernan said.

"We did have a slow start, but we are moving now," he added.

He also noted the delegates supporting the President recently endorsed the President's State of the Union address.

Besides Heffernan, the other Ford delegates in the district are Glenna Jicha, Palatine; Irl Marshall, Highland Park; and Harold B. Smith Jr., Barrington. The alternate delegates are David R. Ganfield, Lincolnshire; Bernard F. Lee, Mount Prospect, Nancy Lyerla, Hoffman Estates; and George Wiley, Deerfield.

'Cuts preferred over taxes'

A poll taken by State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, shows voters would prefer a service cutback to a tax increase.

Totten said 84 per cent of the persons answering a poll he took of residents in the 3rd District favored the service cutback. Only 8 per cent said they would prefer a tax increase, Totten reported.

He said the survey also showed 82 per cent of the persons responding favored a ceiling on state taxes.

Totten noted responses were split about even on the question of whether area children were receiving quality education; however, 88 per cent said Chicago should not expect the state to finance its school budget deficit.

He added 65 per cent of the respondents said teachers should not be allowed to strike, and 77 per cent said a school board should be allowed to replace striking teachers.

Another strong vote indicated 73 per cent favored mandatory life prison sentences for persons convicted of second offenses.

Totten also reported 81 per cent of the responses indicated opposition to the progress of the Regional Transportation Authority.

Thompson talk at church

Republican gubernatorial candidate James Thompson will speak to the Temple Chai-Kingswood Methodist Church open house on Feb. 26 at 8 p.m.

The session, which is open to the public, will be held at 401 Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove.

Political briefs

Labor endorses Marzullo

Anne Marzullo, a Republican candidate for the Illinois House from the 4th Legislative District, has won the endorsement of two area labor organizations.

Mrs. Marzullo, Niles, received the backing of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE) from the 10th Congressional District.

She also won an endorsement from the United Auto Workers, District 4.

Fundraisers scheduled

A number of candidates and elected officials seeking reelection will have fundraising events during the coming weeks.

State Rep. Donald Totten-R-Hoffman Estates, will be honored at a cocktail party Feb. 21 at the Plum Grove Club in Palatine. Tickets for the event will cost $5 per person and can be obtained by calling 394-9387 or 884-0738.

A testimonial party will be held for State Rep. Edward Bluthardt, R-Schiller Park, on Feb. 22 at the Starlight Inn, Schiller Park.

Tickets for the event are $19.76 and may be obtained by calling 455-5610 or 678-0717.

Gerald Rubin, who is seeking the Republican nomination for Illinois House from the 4th district, will hold a cocktail party on Feb. 15 at the Skokie VFW Hall.

Tickets for the event are $25 and may be obtained by calling 677-3510 or 236-6011.

Dixon, Egan in Elk Grove

State Treasurer Alan Dixon and Appellate Court Judge Edward Egan, the regular Democratic candidates for secretary of state and Cook County state's attorney, will appear Tuesday at the Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization meeting.

Also appearing at the meeting will be independent candidate for attorney general Ronald Stackler, who is supported by Gov. Daniel Walker.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Elk Grove Township Hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Profit taking results in loss; Dow down 11.81

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market suffered its worst loss in two months Thursday when a wave of profit taking battered a tired new year rally in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 124.21-point gainer through Wednesday, plunged 11.81 points to 964.81, the worst setback since it fell 17.71 pioints Dec. 3. The Dow gained 4.01 Wednesday.

The setback was not confined to blue chips. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 1.52 to 100.39 and the average price of an NYSE common share decreased by 51 cents. Declines routed advances, 1,101 to 471, among the 1,923 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 33,780,000 shares, down from the 38,270,000 traded Wednesday, the third busiest day in the 184-year history of the NYSE. It marked the 15th time this year 30 million or more shares had been traded in a single session.

VETERAN ANALYSTS said they were not surprised by the blue-chip profit taking that has persisted the past week. Many said they were surprised there had not been more in light of the January rally.

Some selling was attributed to concern on Wall Street that short-term interest rates have stopped a four-month downward trend. Short-term money rates have risen in the past few days.

Some analysts, such as Newton Zinder, vice president of E. F. Hutton, noted the market's new year rally had "been sparked by lower interest rates. Now it looks as if they've stopped going down. This was a good excuse many were looking for to take profits."

Blue chips and glamors, the leaders in the new year rally, were among the biggest losers in the profit taking spree. Digital Equipment fell 4-5/8 to 159¼, IBM 3-7/8 to 258, Getty Oil 3½ to 168¼ and MCA 2-7/8 to 75¾.

Prices closed higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased four cents. Volume totaled 4,860,000 shares, compared to 5,360,000 traded Wednesday, the busiest day in more than two years.

Junko Tabei wanted to try; succeeded scaling Everest

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

"I have never made this soil for thy feet, this air for thy breathing, these rocks for thy neighbors. I cannot pity nor fondle thee here, but forever relentlessly drive thee hence to where I am kind. Shouldst thou freeze or starve, or shudder thy life away, here is no shrine, nor altar, nor access to my ear." —Henry David Thoreau

Everest. Hostile pinnacle of the world where only 35 men have ever set foot and many died trying. Only 23 years ago did Everest yield to man for the first time.

And now a woman has met this ultimate test of courage and physical stamina. One woman has stood on top of Mount Everest.

She is a 4' 11", 94-pound Japanese wife and mother, Junko Tabei.

THE FRAGILE-LOOKING, 35-year-old related her feat Wednesday in Schaumburg to employes of Motorola, whose two-way radio Mrs. Tabei carried to the summit of the world's highest mountain, 29,028 feet above sea level.

The all-woman expedition, sponsored by a Tokyo broadcasting conglomerate, achieved its goal last May after four years of preparation. The six-month-long expedition involved 600 porters, 40 Sherpas and 15 climbers to put Mrs. Tabei and a single Sherpa companion on the summit. The cost was $150,000.

It was a team effort, the ultimate summit climber remaining unknown until the end. Mrs. Tabei was selected by her teammates to make the final assault because she was in the best condition physically and mentally.

SHE HAD anticipated a younger member of the team would make the final assault, since she had already been to the tops of 37 other mountains, including Annapurna in western Nepal.

The struggle itself is so grueling as to blot out all thought except survival, and "putting one foot in front of the other."

At the top Mrs. Tabei, weakened and confused by the altitude, thought only, "It is finished. I don't have to climb any more."

What had taken two months to ascend took three days to descend.

It was December, 1974, when the women, all members of the Japanese Women's Alpinist Club, began their journey.

DURING FOUR years of planning the expedition, Mrs. Tabei had given piano lessons to earn $5,000 toward the costs. She also had borne a daughter, Noriko, who was three at the time of her climb.

THE FIRST woman to climb Mount Everest shows her gear and clothing, which included several layers of air-insulated coats and pants, wind-proof parkas, seven-pound boots, and triple gloves.

Mrs. Tabei, a mountain climber since the age of 10, jogged 16 miles three times a week and went mountain climbing in Japan with her husband every weekend to get in shape for the expedition.

Her husband is an employe of the Honda Motor Co. in Tokyo, and the two met while pursuing the sport.

FROM NEPAL THE women and their army of porters marched for 40 days to the base of Everest and set up camp, then began the ascent.

From base camp up the Khumbu Icefall to Camp One was "very difficult," fraught with "many crevasses" and requiring use of fixed ropes and ladders. It took the climbers two weeks to complete this route.

A month after the climb began, the team's second camp, at 17,000 feet, was buried in an avalanche "like a river of ice" one night.

"I AM FINISHED," Mrs. Tabei thought as she lay immobilized in her tent, which had been shoved 15 feet down the mountain. But she managed to cut her way out with her pocketknife and was dragged from the ice-drift by Sherpas. The same avalanche killed several members of a British team also climbing the mountain at that time.

With two-thirds of their equipment lost and morale shaken, the team was left with resources and time for only one attempt at the summit, still 7,000 feet up from their highest camp. Junko's drive was considered their best chance.

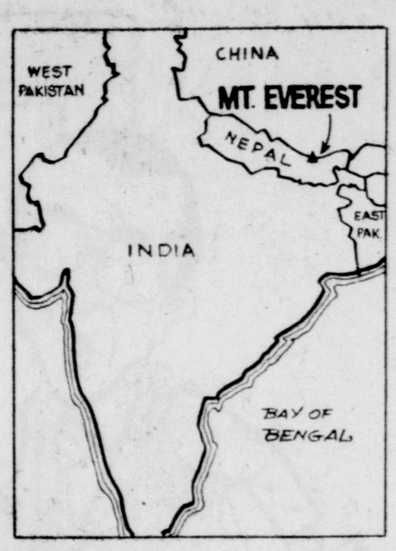

Carrying one and a half times her weight in gear and oxygen, Mrs. Tabei struggled up steep ice walls and through waist-deep snow, endured sub-zero temperatures and "wind like jet streams" to establish the sixth and final camp at 28,000 feet. That night the climbers had to tie their tent to the side of the mountain to keep it from blowing off.

AFTER A sleepless night, Junko and one other team member began their final assault May 16. For 7½ hours they scaled a razor-like ridge towering over Tibet on the one side and Nepal on the other.

Shortly after 12:30 p.m. on May 16, they stood on top of the world.

"I wanted to try myself. I wanted to climb the mountain."

And Junko Tabei did.

The way we see it

We agree with Tecson choice

The process of selecting the successor to Cook County Comr. Floyd Fulle has resulted in a good choice by the Republican members of the Cook County board.

The Republican board members from the suburbs Monday named Regional Transportation Authority board member Joseph Tecson to replace Fulle, who has been sentenced to prison on federal extortion, perjury and tax evasion charges.

Tecson has demonstrated as a member of the RTA board that he understands suburban needs and is willing to fight for them.

The next step for the Republican county board members is to appoint Tecson's replacement on the RTA board. In making that choice they should demonstrate the same concern for finding qualified candidates as they have shown in filling the county board post.

The commissioners have said they will select Tecson's successor on the RTA from the remaining county board candidates. Viewing that group, the commissioners have some highly qualified people to choose from — Wheeling Township Supervisor Ethel Kolerus, Des Plaines attorney Wayne Anderson and Alexander White, regional director of the U. S. Department of Labor, among them.

It is distressing, however, to hear reports that the decision has already been made to appoint Bremen Township Committeeman Gene Leonard to the post. Leonard was considered in December to be the frontrunner for Fulle's county board seat, but plans to name him apparently were scrapped when substantial numbers of party leaders complained of Leonard's lack of qualifications.

Although several of the commissioners deny they have made a deal to appoint Leonard to the RTA, other reliable party sources indicate this is in fact the plan. It seems hard to understand how a party loyalist who was considered by many in his own party to be unqualified for the county board seat can suddenly become qualified for the RTA board.

For too many years the county board post has been used by suburban Republican committeemen to take care of their own, regardless of qualifications.

Tecson's appointment to the county board seems to break that mold, because even though he is a former township committeeman he also has other impressive credentials for the office.

It would be tragic if the RTA board is now allowed to replace the county board as the place where simple party loyalty is rewarded. The county commissioners should use the same high standards when they select RTA members as they used when they agreed on Tecson for the county board.

I like to be where the action is!

The almanac

(by United Press International)

Today is Friday, Feb. 6, the 37th day of 1976 with 329 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning star is Venus.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.

Actresses Zsa Zsa Gabor and Mamie Van Doren were born on Feb. 6 — Zsa Zsa in 1923 and Mamie in 1933.

On this day in history:

• In 1778, Massachusetts ratified the U.S. Constitution.

• In 1943, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was named commander of Allied Expeditionary Forces in North Africa. He later became World War II supreme allied commander in Europe.

• In 1967, Cassius Clay defeated Ernie Terrell to retain the heavyweight boxing crown.

• In 1971, Apollo 14 began its trip home after a moon-landing mission.

A thought for the day: American historican Henry Brooks Adams said, "He too serves a certain purpose who only stands and cheers."

'Our district supports Reagan'

I am writing to offer an opposing view to Mr. Bill Heffernan, whose letter appeared in the Fence Post on Jan. 26. Mr. Heffernan stated that the people of the Northwest suburbs, and in particular the people of the 12th Congressional District are strong Ford supporters.

The people of the district want fiscal responsibility. The people of the 12th District want limited constitutional government. They want maximum freedom for the individual. They want a healthy, growing, unfettered free enterprise system. The people of the 12th District want to restore our weakened military posture and they want someone who will stand up to the threat of communist imperialism. These are goals President Ford has repeatedly failed to achieve.

The people of the 12th District have already shown what kind of political leadership they deserve by solidly and continually electing Philip Crane as our representative. They will continue to show their concern and interest in their country by electing Ronald Reagan as the Republican candidate for President on March 16.

Ronald Reagan was born in Illinois. He knows and understands the people of Illinois. And he knows the American people.

No one questions President Ford's honesty or good intent. But after a year and a half as President, it is obvious to all that Mr. Ford does not have the dynamic leadership nor the political savvy to solve the problems faced by this nation. Ronald Reagan does. I believe the 12th Congressional District will be a beginning. The beginning of a Reagan movement that will spread all across this nation.

The 12th District will not only overwhelmingly choose Ronald Reagan as the Republican candidate for President, it will become a strong political base from which Ronald Reagan will capture the imagination and enthusiastic support of all Americans and crush any Democratic opponent in the general election next November.

A 'dependable' paper boy

We have had so many snow storms this winter. Our driveway has had snow six to eight inches deep. I know, because I shoveled it. Yet, our Herald has been delivered all through these heavy snowstorms. No matter how cold it is or how deep the snow, or how hard it rains, our paper is always delivered. It is dropped at our front door between 6:30 and 7 a.m.

Our paper is delivered by a young boy. His name is Tim Hebbard. I can truthfully say "we have never had a delivery boy quite as dependable as Tim." I know, as long as he is our delivery boy, our Herald will be at our front door in the early morning.

I cannot praise this young boy enough. His service is excellent, needless to say. He sincerely desires to please and do a good job. Other than being friendly and courteous, he also has a businesslike manner. His record has been correct, never forgetting to punch the card, etc.

With all the horrible trouble in the world today, it is so gratifying to see a young man like Tim. America will continue to be great if young men like Tim are at the helm!

Lauds teachers

I would like to take this opportunity to give credit to the fourth grade staff of Longfellow Elementary School, Dist. 21 in Buffalo Grove. These hard-working women are a credit to the teaching profession. Today I was the lucky participant in the fourth grade's celebration of the Chinese New Year. Under the leadership of Mrs. Tipsword, Mrs. Adler and Mrs. Nokamora, the entire fourth grade, 80 strong, has been studying China and in particular the Chinese New Year. We parents who were fortunate enough to be able to attend ate lunch with our children and then were treated to a parade including a huge Chinese dragon, children in costumes and background music. Fourth grade was never like this when I attended school!

So I want to say thank you for giving my son Neal a learning experience he will never forget, and to compliment and not criticize our schools for the outstanding job they are doing with and for our children.

New agency unneeded

Consumer protection is a worthy cause, but it may become so popular that we'll need a consumer guide to tell one consumer protection group from another.

A case in point is a recent proposal by Niles Mayor Nicholas Blase that area communities should form the North Suburban Consumer Protection Agency.

The agency would include Des Plaines, Niles, Skokie, Lincolnwood, Glenview, Park Ridge and Morton Grove. It would be worthwhile because it would handle complaints locally, according to Blase.

Well, maybe it would serve that purpose. However, it might duplicate services offered by the consumer protection office of state Atty. General William Scott and other offices run by various organizations to serve the same purpose.

It hardly serves the consumer to have to select from a large number of consumer protection services. It could be that overkill will serve to lessen the effectiveness of all agencies.

Band seeks support for trip to Brazil

The Wheeling High School band has been chosen to represent the State of Illinois in a week-long celebration of America's Bicentennial in Sao Paulo, Brazil. Sao Paulo is Illinois' partner state. Illinois and Sao Paulo have had many cultural, industrial, commercial and humanitarian exchanges over the past few years.

Because of their many national and international accomplishments, the Governor designated the Wheeling band as the official Illinois Bicentennial Band and its members as the Illinois' Ambassadors of Goodwill to Sao Paulo. Not only are the Brazilians paying tribute to America's Bicentennial but as a gesture of goodwill they will provide food, lodging and land transportation for all the young musicians.

We should all recognize the international importance of this occasion and the great opportunity it offers for promoting economic, cultural and humanitarian development. Foreign trade is critical to our great state since Illinois ranks first among all states in this field. In fact, one out of six jobs in Illinois is dependent upon foreign trade. The State of Illinois also plans to open an official trade office in Sao Paulo during the week of the trade fair.

Let's recognize and honor our neighbors and enter into the spirit of '76 by financially assisting the Illinois Bicentennial Band. I'm sure they could use a contribution of any size.

Mary's the big news

Even if she does have waxy yellow buildup on her kitchen floors, she's the most interesting thing to hit TV in some time.

In case you're one of the shrinking handful of suburbanites who aren't acquainted with Mary Hartman, she's a nice quiet housewife from Fernwood, Ohio, whose daily life is winning the attention of more and more TV viewers every day.

Her show can be seen at 10 o'clock nightly on Channel 32. It began quietly enough in early January, but already it's attracting more viewers than Channel 5's upbeat news with veteran Floyd Kalber and newcomer Jane Pauley.

In other cities, Mary, her friends and family (including a grandfather known as the "Fernwood Flasher") also have attracted a swarm of fanatical viewers. It's possible in Chicago that "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" one of these days will be more popular at 10 p.m. than the news.

Our newscasting friends, in competing with each other, may have created the market for 10 o'clock entertainment. In recent years the news programs have been spiced with increasing doses of inane banter, physical stunts and gimmickry.

But unless they go all the way to a Laugh-In format, they can hardly compete, as entertainers, with a suburban housewife complaining about her husband's sexual shortcomings.

Beaten at entertaining, perhaps they could go to a 15-minute format of straight news followed by their own version of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman."

'Let's get truth about hypnotism'

I found your Ask Andy column on hypnotism very interesting, a much needed article as the past decade has seen an intense renewal of interest in applications of hypnosis. However, two comments are in order.

First, Andy begins by saying that hypnosis works only with certain people, yet as a practicing hypnotist I have found, after working with over 2,000 individuals, that everyone can achieve hypnosis to some degree. Approximately 40 per cent can be hypnotized in a relatively short time. Others less suggestible may take longer.

Second, he states that a person may fail to wake up from the hypnotic state, actually the individual induces hypnosis through his own convictions. Therefore,he can readily de-hypnotize himself in a split second, if necessary.

I would like to thank the author for showing that hypnosis is currently being used by the medical profession and others. But, please let's remove the hocus-pocus and misconceptions by first getting all the true facts.

Hopeless case? Tierney Parkhurst won't buy it

Mike Klein's people

Tierney's last name is Parkhurst. She will grow into a very pretty young woman because Tierney has warm eyes and shining black hair plus equally large gifts of a little girl's beauty, intelligence and pride.

She also has strength. And Tierney needs that power everyday. You see, she also has cerebral palsy.

Nothing ever comes easy. It hasn't for any of Tierney's 10 years. Someday, she might walk and talk like other children. But not before winning a long fight.

There are both beautiful and painful secrets trapped within Tierney. Joys and sorrows are seen only by her eyes.

SHE CANNOT fully share the happy thoughts of a little girl playing with her dolls. How can Tierney tell us about clothes and hair and friends?

Will anyone ever hear about Tierney's first steps? They were taken not so long ago as volunteers helped her in the never-ending struggle.

What could Tierney have felt? Will anyone ever really know?

And if Tierney could, what would she tell her friends?

Each day, they visit the Parkhurst trailer just north of O'Hare Airport in an unincorporated area near Des Plaines.

THERE ARE nearly 100 of them. Always, they come to help. What would Tierney say to each one?

And especially now when Tierney is getting closer to walking, to holding her puppet dog Scruffy, to sitting up straight without help.

She needs those friends more now than ever before.

Tierney would say thanks to each one if only she had the words. But her friends know. They see her thanks in Tierney's eyes.

Kathy Parkhurst, Tierney's mother, keeps a plaque in their living room which reads, "Keep Me Going Lord."

EVERYONE NEEDS faith, a belief that tomorrow will bring something better if only you work hard today. Jack and Kathy Parkhurst have always believed it.

They've sacrificed so that one day, Tierney will be like other little girls.

It has been a process carried around the world from Tierney's birthplace in Blythe, Calif. They've lived in England, Thailand, Alaska and numerous other places.

Always, there was the challenge of new doctors, new programs, new ideas for helping Tierney. Being uprooted is never fun. It was less enjoyable for Jack and Kathy Parkhurst.

Tierney weighed six pounds and 11 ounces at birth. She was a normal, healthy baby . . . or so doctors said. But Tierney almost immediately became ill with pneumonia.

SHE RECOVERED, but when Tierney did not show any mobility after eight months, Kathy Parkhurst became worried.

"She wasn't sitting up or trying to do anything," Kathy said. "The doctors just said she was slow, that she'd been sick and not to worry too much."

But Tierney did not improve. Nine months later, her physicians determined that she had sustained brain damage. They couldn't say how or when. To this day, they still guess.

Jack and Kathy Parkhurst would not let Tierney's life stop. They sought out numerous doctors. They tried all the conventional therapy programs.

At 5 years old, Tierney possessed the physical skills of a child 4 or 5 months old. Tierney could roll in either direction, but she could not crawl, sit up or hold her head straight .

SOME DOCTORS told the Parkhursts that Tierney was severely retarded. One neurologist suggested that she be institutionalized.

"I thought she ought to be given a chance," Kathy Parkhurst said. "Age 6 was too early to give up."

From that low point, there has come hope.

Tierney now reads at a second-grade level and has attended conventional schools, even though she now studies at home under her mother's supervision.

She is no recluse. Tierney has visited the Adler Planetarium and the Art Institute of Chicago. She has been on overnight stays with the Camp FireGirls.

"She does not have an empty life," Kathy Parkhurst said. "Tierney is very much aware of everything."

THERE HAS BEEN great progress made since last summer when Tierney began a special program designed by the Doman-Delecato Institute in Philadelphia.

It's an arduous process of exercising with special equipment. The work is aimed at strengthening Tierney's spine, improving her ability to walk, sit straight and strengthen all her muscles.

Those brain cells were long ago damaged, but all were not destroyed. Doman-Delecato believes that Tierney has the capacity for learning motor skills.

Donna Losey, a Forest View High School student, has worked with Tierney five hours per week since September. She has seen the changes.

"When I started, Tierney needed three people to help with her walking. Now, she needs just two," Donna said. "Sometimes, if she is doing really well, it takes just one when she puts her mind to it."

JACK AND KATHY Parkhurst never quit on their daughter. They didn't stop trying, even when told that Tierney was a hopeless medical case.

The volunteers have been a miracle on her behalf. There are many friends like Donna Losey. And more are needed, especially in the morning hours.

Most important of all, Tierney Parkhurst has not given any ground. She will not retreat. Everyone says that. You know it from the way she listens.

You see, Tierney is lucky in at least this respect. She has friends, people who really care that one little girl gets her best shot at life.

Someday, she'll be wanting to look them up and say thanks.

Congressional wrapup

Votes include Angola, CIA, mining, fishing

From Roll Call Report

Here is how the members of the Illinois delegation in the U.S. House of Representatives voted on issues during the last two weeks of January.

AID TO ANGOLA. The House accepted, 323-99, a Senate-passed amendment barring the spending of any funds in the fiscal 1976 defense appropriation for any activities other than intelligence gathering in Angola.

Yes: Crane, Mikva, Metcalfe, Murphy, Russo, Fary, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, Annunzio, Hall, Anderson, O'Brien, Railsback, Madigan, Shipley, Price and Simon.

No: Derwinski, Hyde, McClory, Erlenborn, Michel and Findley.

HEW AND LABOR APPROPRIATION. The House voted to override the Presidential veto of the $45 billion appropriation for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

Supporters argued the appropriation was reasonable. Opponents agreed with the President, who called the appropriation a "classic example of unchecked spending."

Yes: Mikva, Metcalfe, Murphy, Russo, Fary, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, Annunzio, Hall, Railsback, Madigan, Shipley, Price and Simon.

No: Crane, Hyde, McClory, Erlenborn, Anderson, O'Brien, Michel and Findley.

COAL MINING: The house voted on two measures dealing with coal mining. The first passed, 370-32 to prohibit coal mining in the National Park System. The measure broadened existing prohibitions on mining activities in conservation areas.

Yes: Mikva, Murphy, Russo, Fary, Hyde, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, Annunzio, McClory, Erlenborn, Hall, Anderson, O'Brien, Railsback, Findley, Madigan, Shipley, Price and Simon.

Metcalfe, Crane and Michel did not vote.

On the second coal matter, the House, passed 344-51 the 1975 Federal Coal Leasing Amendments Act, which is designed to decrease dependence on foreign energy sources. The act is designed to increase mining on previously designated federal coal reserves.

Yes: Mikva, Murphy, Russo, Derwinski, Fary, Hyde, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, McClory, Erlenborn, Hall, Anderson, Railsback, Findley, Madigan, Shipley, Price and Simon.

No: Annunzio and Michel.

Metcalfe, Crane and O'Brien did not vote.

Here is how the state's two U.S. Senators voted on issues in the past two weeks.

CIA CHIEF: The Senate voted 64-27 to confirm the President's appointment of former Republican Party Chairman George Bush as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Both Percy and Stevenson voted in favor of the confirmation.

HEW AND LABOR APPROPRIATION. The Senate also overrode the President's veto of the appropriation bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

Percy and Stevenson both voted yes.

FISHING LIMITS: The Senate passed, 77-19, a bill extending the nation's fishing jurisdiction to 200 miles offshore.

Supporters argued the increased limits were necessary to protect fishing along the U.S. Coast. Opponents object to the unilateral takeover of the seas. They called for a more negotiated plan with other nations.

Percy voted yes on the bill, while Stevenson voted no.

Ma Bell tells ways to save on calls

Walker appeals phone rate hike

by LEA TONKIN

Gov. Daniel Walker Thursday ordered the state to petition the Illinois Commerce Commission for a rehearing of its decision to provide Illinois Bell with rate increases.

The ICC authorized the utility to raise pay phone rates from a dime to 20 cents, to increase long distance telephone charges and to charge for directory assistance calls after the first six per month starting in mid-1977.

James E. Olson, Bell president, has called the rate increases "inadequate," and has threatened court action.

"IF THE COMMISSION does not reconsider its order," Olson said, "we will be forced to appeal the decision to the courts and file for new rates promptly."

Bell spokesmen said however much the rate increases eventually will be, customers may reduce the impact of the hikes:

• A review of monthly service charges should indicate whether a customer pays for more service than he needs. Before a customer decides to change, however, the cost of modification should be considered.

• Residential customers should check the costs of optional services. Extensions, Touch-Tone push button service, portable phones and special decorative phones are among the options.

• For the residential customer who calls many numbers outside the immediate area, additional directories will be supplied by the utility's service representatives. The Feb. 4 decision by the Illinois Commerce Commission allows the phone company to charge customers for directory assistance calls when they total more than six per month, starting next year.

• Continuing monthly charges for Princess and Trimline phones can be avoided if you pay for them in a lump sum at the time of installation.

• If a telephone bill is wrong, a customer should contact the service representtive whose number is listed in the local directory.

• Distance, how long a customer talks and the type of service determine unit charges for service. Unit charges will be eliminated for some calls, depending on the service plan you selected.

• Consumers can save postage if they pay phone bills in person at the local telephone company business office or authorized payment office.

• Most calls which involve the opertor are charged at a higher rate than calls dialed by the customer.

• For long distance calls, station-to-station costs are lower than person to person calls involving an operator. Calling collect or charging the call on a credit account means higher costs. Customers can clock calls to avoid overtime rates, and check the phone book for the hours when long distance rates are low.

A Bell spokesman said the number of directory assistance calls already dropped 20 per cent Thursday, and requests for additional directories increased.

Truck sought to pick up food surplus for needy

by KURT BAER

A free food supplement program serving the children of 526 low-income families in the Northwest suburbs is in jeopardy unless the Northwest Opportunity Center can find a volunteer truck driver to pick up the food one day a month.

The trucker who has donated his time for the past three years, H. B. Fuller, can no longer make the once-a-month run to 1800 W. Pershing Rd., Chicago, where the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture stores boxes of powdered and condensed milk, powdered eggs, fruit juice, farina, potatoes and other surplus foods.

The food is taken to the Northwest Opportunity Center, 8 W. College Dr., Arlington Heights, and passed out free to needy families.

But the nonprofit agency cannot afford to hire a semitrailer truck for the 80-mile round-trip, Mike Raimondi, center director, said Thursday. He is hoping to find a volunteer who is willing to make the run so "Operation Nutrition" can continue.

"THE FOOD supplements are passed out free to mothers with children up to 5 years old who meet the (federal) poverty guidelines," Raimondi explained.

The trip to the government's surplus food warehouse is made the first Thursday of every month. Yesterday, Bill Vincent, a brick layer, got permission from the Pedersen Masonry Co., Barrington, to use a company dump truck to pick up the food. Vincent made several trips in the open truck so that the food was delivered on time.

"I heard they needed help and got an OK from my boss," Vincent said.

But he cannot continue to make runs in the months ahead.

"We were fortunate to get a truck on a one-time, emergency basis," Raimondi said. "But we'll need somebody for the future."

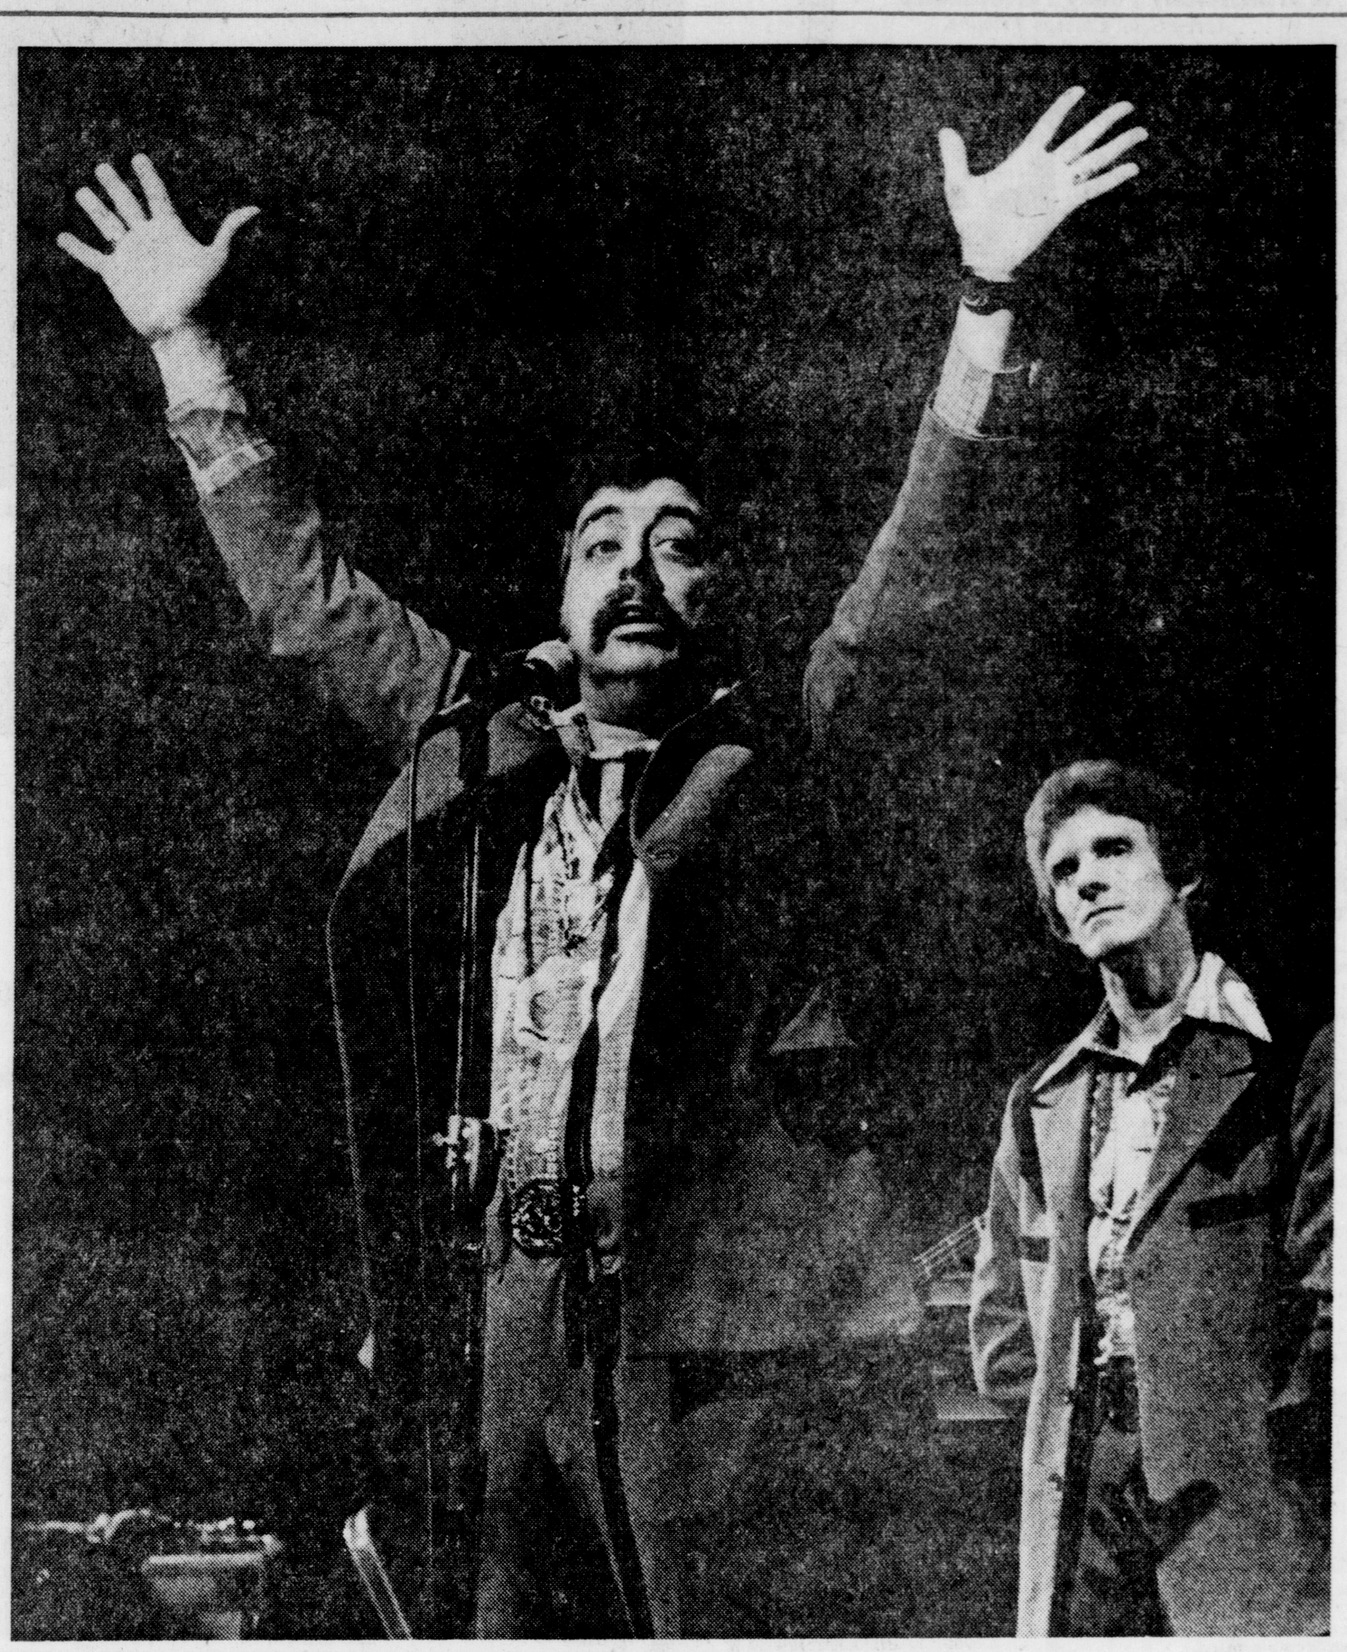

Persons with a semitrailer truck who are interested in helping with the food delivery may call the Northwest Opportunity Center at 255-3456.

COUNTRY AND WESTERN fans came from all over the Midwest to see the lineup of stars for Arie Crown's country concert. The favored lady was Dolly Parton, below. She was followed on stage by the Statler Brothers, who first arrived on the country and pop scene 14 years ago with their recording of "Flowers on the Wall."

Country and western

It's folksy: no put-on

by GENIE CAMPBELL

The concert was virtually a sellout. Arie Crown Theatre was jam-packed. But it wasn't a rock concert. One could tell right off. The crowd varied too much in age. Jeans were plentiful, but so were coats and ties. Most of all, concertgoers were perfectly mannered — clapping, whistling and hooting at all the right, and only the right, places.

Dolly Parton made fans holler a bit longer, and the Statler Brothers milked the majority of laughs. But that could be anticipated.

Country and western stars are accustomed to exceedingly patronizing but still polite fans. And it was no different Sunday at the Country Shower of Stars concert.

IN ADDITION to Miss Parton and the Statler Brothers, a native Canadian performer, Zeke Sheppard, whipped into a harmonica frenzy and Ronnie Milsap, the blind musician who started out in rock but came back to his "first love," country, rhythmically bridged the gap between hard rock and hard-core country and western.

He came out as bedazzling as Elton John in a rhinestone studded suit and glasses.

He and Dolly Parton had driven in from Wisconsin where they appeared together the night before. Following Sunday's concerts they were headed back to Nashville, not for a rest, but more work, specifically a recording session for Miss Parton's new television show.

Yet what most people would consider a grueling pace is a chosen, even coveted, way of life for country and western entertainers. The more successful travel in huge, converted luxury buses.

USUALLY PERFORMERS will lounge inside their home-on-wheels until time to go on, but zero temperatures and Arie Crown's comfortable backstage facilities drew them all inside this time.

Parton primped in her dressing room. The Statler Brothers, the last to go on, were sprawled on couches in the main lounge, talking to other band members and occasionally glancing at their watches to make sure they had time enough to get dressed.

If the atmosphere seemed low-key out front, the same was true backstage.

Psyching up for a performance is necessary, according to Phil Balsley of the Statler Brothers. But it appears the process is mental, well-rehearsed and hardly ever shows. While the mixings for Screwdrivers were set out on a table leading backstage, only visitors with passes were taking advantage.

WHILE THE STATLER Brothers were still available, I wandered over, curious to learn how they chose their name which I guessed was the question they are asked the most.

I was wrong. It was only the second. "The first is always — are we brothers," said Phil.

But I knew that already. Two are, Harold and Don Reid. Then there are Phil Balsley and Lew DeWitt. But that still doesn't explain Statler.

"We got it off a box of Kleenex," answered Phil. "And Statler Kleenex isn't easy to find anymore."

The last time the group ran across some in New Jersey, they bought two cases just to have on hand.

The four did grow up and attend school together, and they still reside in their hometown of Staunton, Va., though much of the last 14 years has been spent on the road. They arrived here directly from Memphis.

WAS THE trip bad?

"I don't even know. I slept all the way," said Phil. He and his partners find the winter schedule mild compared to the tiring one-night fair stops booked throughout the summer. The Statlers may be on the road weeks at a time without a break.

Much of that time is spent right here in the Midwest because that's where the greatest market for country and western still lies.

"Yes, this is how it is," said Ronnie Milsap, back in his dressing room describing the relaxed, friendly atmosphere. "And I know from first-hand experience," he laughed, referring to his previous rock concert experiences.

HE ENJOYS the attention country and western is receiving, not just from a select minority, but from a wide, general audience.

"The whole world is going country," he laughed. Recalling his recent tour overseas, he added, "Britons know as much of what's going on in Nashville as I do. It's accepted now. Country rock is the perfect crossover."

Backstage excitement peaked when Dolly Parton, blond hair high and cascading in curls and ready to wow her fans in a tight turquoise suit that made each curve jump out, made her way from the dressing room to the wing of the stage accompanied by a body guard. She greeted strangers in a high-pitched southern drawl and kidded backstage right up to her introduction.

FOR MANY SERIOUS country and western fans, Dolly is the ultimate. Having turned 30 just last month, she talks a lot about her background and upbringing as one of 12 children born on a dirt farm in rural Tennessee. Included in her Traveling Family Band are cousins, sisters and brothers.

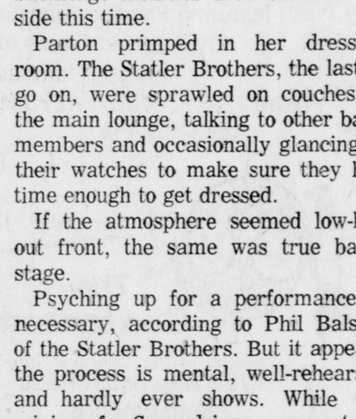

"It's all real friendly. That's just our way," smiled Dolly, but it's hard to get a word in edgewise because everyone is tossing her compliments, vying for her attention.

"Oh Dolly, you're the prettiest of the lot," yelled one fan.

"Oh, no I ain't," she teased in that baby-doll sweet voice. Dolly had just walked off stage and she was hungry. But she posed for pictures with everyone and anyone — because that's the country and western way, real natural and home-folksy.

My Search for Patty Hearst

When it comes to national amusements, we've never outgrown our need for a rip-snortin' cops-and-robbers-and-kidnapping yarn, the kind in which Cagney and Bogart used to play the lead.

But in recent years, the selection has been meager. Oh, we thrilled (in horror and contempt, of course) to the student rioters and the political trials of the late 1960s and early 1970s. But when it came down to the bottom line, the Weathermen and the Chicago 7 were no match for Dillinger and Capone.

Now, thanks to the granddaughter of the men who virtually invented yellow journalism, William Randolph Hearst, the genre is alive and well again. Consider "My Search for Patty Hearst" by Steven Weed, (Crown Publishers, $8.95).

The ingredients are the standard stuff from the melodramas of the '20s and '30s, a rich and attractive heriess (played by Claudette Colbert, perhaps?), a bizarre killer gang, a fumbling force of G-men and a cast of thousands of flashbulb-popping photogs.

Now, after two years of The Chase, the scene shifts to the courtroom for the Trial of the Century, which will determine whether Patty was a cool-headed gun moll or a poor little (rich) girl brainwashed to serve the SLA's ends.

STEVEN WEED, the man who loved — and still loves — Patty, fits perfectly into the scenario. She was torn from his arms (the script says), he's dutifully pursued her (although spurned) and now, according to Patty's army of attorneys, he'll be a vital witness in her defense.

What drama! What thrills! What excitement! Yet, for all this, "My Search for Patty Hearst" is not a great or even good book.

You probably haven't even seen it yet. Area bookstores are just beginning to stock it. But in the coming weeks, as the trial unfolds, "My Search" is expected to become a centerpiece of converstion for those following the trial.

CONSIDERING the book's timely publication prior to the trial and the two years of drama it contains, one can safely say Weed had three goals in writing it:

- To create an aura of understanding and sympathy for Patty Hearst;
- To make a lot of money;
- To provide an emotional catharsis for the kind of personal suffering he's endured.

None of these goals are unrealistic, considering the nature of the case and the society in which we live. It certainly can be argued that Weed has every right to make a buck while attempting to keep Patty out of jail.

WITH THESE goals in mind, don't expect the book to provide a precise analysis as to what makes Patty, the Hearsts and the SLA tick. If you've followed the case closely, Weed's book covers little new ground.

You will be further disappointed if you expect a tale of sex and dope. Those topics already caused a split between Weed and his first co-author, Roger Rapoport, now a writer for

They met when he was a beginning teacher at an exclusive private school. Patty was a student who chased the teacher.

Entire musical spectrum covered on Bowie album

Playback
by Tom Von Malder

David Bowie had his greatest American success last year with his disco-oriented "Young Americans" album (RCA), recorded in Philadelphia. The title song and "Fame" were big hits.

Bowie's new album, "Station To Station" (also RCA), does not follow the same pattern. The disco feel has become part of Bowie's over-all sound and only dominates "Golden Years" (another successful single) and "Stay," which features a guitar sound similar to "Fame" and a good bump and hustle instrumental closing.

At the opposite end of the musical spectrum is "Word On A Wing," a hymn featuring soft vocals and a celestial sounding Chamberlin, which is a type of mellotron.

THE TITLE SONG, impressionistic and biographical, opens with oddly phased train noises. It is the story of "the return of the thin white duke" — Bowie's original title for the song and his forthcoming autobiography. The song is overly long at 10½ minutes and loses its impact.

The best songs are the previously mentioned "Stay" and "TVC 15," which is Bowie as the futurist. The song is about a holographic television (erroneously termed hologramic by Bowie) which projects a 3D likeness of an actress with whom he falls in love and pleads for the TVC 15 to bring back.

With this album, Bowie attempts to retain both his newly gained disco fans and his older "Ziggy Stardust" fans by combining musical elements. I think he will be successful.

Other new records you can dance to include:

"Safety Zone" by Bobby Womack (United Artists). This is Womack's best album in some time, but it is marred by the overly ambitious Norman Whitfield-type production on "Everything's Gonna Be Alright" and the dullness of the disco "I Feel A Groove Comin' On."

Womack is best on the simpler songs, especially "Daylight" and, to a lesser extent, "Trust In Me," both ballads sung in the Sam Cooke tradition. His updating of the Temptations' "I Wish It Would Rain" is very effective with excellent, backup choral chanting.

"DISCO CONNECTION" by Isaac Hayes Movement (Hot Buttered Soul). This is an excellent, varied instrumental dance record which Hayes produced and co-arranged. He also played keyboards. There is good use of horns of all types and other brass, and the Memphis Strings fill out the sound.

Hayes does not fall back on the typical disco bag of effects. "Vykkii" is a smooth love tune with a prominent bass line. Also good are the title track, "Choppers" and "Auba," which would make a good movie theme.

"Music Maestro Please" by Love Unlimited Orchestra (20th Century). A typical, smooth instrumental album from Barry White, who is expert at this type of smooth funk and soulful ballads. There just isn't anything radically different, and that will please his fans.

"BARRY WHITE'S Greatest Hits" (also 20th Century). White, who on Saturday won the American Music Award as favorite soul singer, shows why in this collection, which features "You're the First, the Last, My Everything," "Never Never Gonna Give Ya Up" and "Can't Get Enough of Your Love, Babe."

Although the last three songs on the second side are filler from 1973, his reworking of the Four Tops' "Standing In the Shadows of Love" is a welcome, very spirited inclusion. It offsets the dismally long "Lover Serenade."

"Biddu Orchestra" (Epic). Biddu, a young man from Bangalore, India, who produced Carl Douglas' "Kung Fu Fighting," had a hit last fall with his disco version of "Summer of '42." In this album, which includes that hit, Biddu brings the same approach successfully to "I Could Have Danced All Night" and unsuccessfully to the "Main Theme From Exodus."

The rest of the album is disco music of his own creaton and all rather bland, although easy to dance to.

'My Search' reveals little insight into Hearst case

The book stall

New Times magazine. Weed's co-author in "My Search" is Scott Swanton, a family friend.

Weed begins by reminiscing about his life with Patty. They met when he was a beginning teacher at an exclusive private school near the family home in Hillsborough, Calif. Patty was a student who chased the teacher. They fell in love and set up housekeeping.

The kidnapping, of course, unleashes the full energy of Patty's father, Randolph Hearst. Weed in the beginning remains close to the Hearst family, but he eventually becomes deeply involved in finding a way to spring Patty from the SLA.

FIRST, WEED helps to initiate the People in Need free-food program. He goes to Mexico to visit leftist Regis Debray, who writes to the SLA to seek Patty's release. Then, the prison release plan, like all other schemes, falls short.

In this nether world of radicals and convicts, Weed struggles to learn and understand how Patty could be converted — or "brainwashed" — to the SLA cause. It's a question which remains unresolved in his mind, although he seeks out all manner of experts, including noted author Robert Lifton.

Perhaps in a few years we all can relate to Weed's quest; now it is too early. Weed's struggle may evoke an occasional gasp of sympathy, but in the end it's difficult to arouse any prolonged sense of compassion for what he's had to endure.

THE PROBLEM remains the stereotype of Patty Hearst as the poor little (rich) kidnapping victim, whose daddy could buy off most of the West Coast but can't spring his daughter from the clutches of a band of gun-toting buffoons. It doesn't dissolve in Weed's book. There are also few new insights into the Hearsts, perhaps because Weed fails as an author or perhaps because there is really little to understand about the Hearst family.

Today, there's a feeling across the United States that Patty's father is going to buy justice with the likes of such high-priced legal talent as F. Lee Bailey, underscoring the idea that the rich and powerful get preferential treatment in the courts, while the poor and powerless often suffer considerable indignities.

Within this national mood, Weed's book will be interpreted as little more than an apology for Patty or a public relations tool for her defense.

IF THERE WERE some sparkling insights into the SLA, the Hearsts or the culture which produces both, the book could be rewarding. But as the personal chronicle of Steven Weed, it's little more than a trip through familiar territory. We've read it all before.

That's not to say that we don't need some perspective on brainwashing, on the conditions which create an SLA or on the culture which can popularize such crimes. But it'll take a literate observer, not a participant, to tell the story.

For the reader-voyeur who wants to stay on top of every detail in the Hearst case, "My Search for Patty Hearst" is required reading. But for the rest of us, an evening of mind-deadening TV might be more profitable.

"CURTAIN"
by AGATHA CHRISTIE
Dodd, Mead & Co., $7.95

The death of Agatha Christie, 85, last month came at a time when her most recently published detective mystery, "Curtain," was on the best-seller charts. Ironically, in the book she had written of the last case and death of one of her most famous and popular characters, the Belgian detective Hercule Poirot.

Dame Agatha wrote more than 90 books, 37 of which featured Poirot. In this final book, Poirot is arthritic and has a bad heart. When not in bed, he is confined to a wheelchair and thus must depend on old friend Arthur Hastings to catch a killer with five victims and soon, a sixth.

The book, as usual is one big riddle with many secondary riddles and divergencies strewn in the reader's way. The pace is measured, if not slow, as both the killer and Poirot work at odds toward the inevitable clash.

THE SUSPENSE is lacking, though. The victim, whom you are to guess, is well evident by the fourth chapter. Too, the device of Poirot knowing who the killer is but not telling Hastings leads to a very mechanical structure in which there is scene after scene with Hastings scrutinizing each character and guessing why each is the killer.

"Curtain" reportedly was written about 30 years ago and was one two books being held for publication until after Dame Agatha's death. The other book supposedly kills off Miss Marple, the writer's other famous character. One hopes that Miss Marple's end will be a bit more lively.

Randhurst remains intact after Blue Oyster Cult

by JOE SWICKARD

Rock 'n' roll came to Randhurst and to the surprise of some, the Northwest suburbs are still standing, property values intact.

You know what rock means: loud, primitive music played by a bunch of long-haired screamers for thousands of other long-haired screamers. Such a combination, it was feared in some quarters, was sure to cut a swath of riot and destruction the length of Rand Road.

The Randhurst Twin Ice Arena was ringed with police last Friday night when Blue Oyster Cult topped the bill, which included Bob Seeger and Rory Gallagher.

If the area was going to have rock 'n' roll, it was going to get the real stuff, not some low-key outfit that parents might enjoy, too. The bands on the bill play it loud and fast and hard.

NOT ONLY DID police squad cars idle outside the arena; they patrolled the parking lot as well. The police were not alone. A private security group took tickets and frisked all patrons for bottles and cans that might become missiles in the hands of the unruly rockers.

One private guard looked as if he were let go from the Pittsburgh Steelers for scaring Mean Joe Greene. He and his co-workers accumulated a pile of confiscated wine bottles and beer cans just about as big as he was.

Nearly 5,000 fans, according to fire department estimates, packed the ice area. They filled the bleachers and sat on the covered ice wall to wall.

THE HAND-LETTERED signs prohibiting smoking in the rink area were widely ignored by tobacco and marijuana users alike.

Gallagher, second on the bill, is currently assaulting the FM airwaves with a hard-driving tune called "Souped-Up Ford." Although he saved his big number for the end of his set, he didn't disappoint his fans.

Gallagher plays the basic, transplanted, transAtlantic blues common to rockers from Great Britain in the past decade.

His work is not challenging to his audience — but then it is meant for rocking and not thinking. His hoarse, throaty delivery and fast guitar work were greeted with loud, unintelligible chants from the crowd.

THE ARENA'S acoustics are good — good for an ice rink and good enough for rock 'n' roll.

The sound was also good enough for the mostly subur suburban crowd wearing basic flannels and denims.

The headliner, Blue Oyster Cult, has a reputation for being loud, loud even for a rock band. It successfully met the challenge of its advance hype.

An exploding star announced the Cult's arrival on stage. The crowd reacted and surged against the temporary barriers. After some very minor shoving between the fans and the security personnel, the confrontations were over. The show continued.

The BOC churned out good rock 'n' roll. The showmanship (now having almost equal importance with the music) was technically fine.

THE FOG MACHINE, meant to produce a murky haze, seemed to be a little overactive and at times totally obscured the stage. However, when the smoke thinned the desired result was highlighted with red and blue spotlights.

The Cult has adopted the name of its live album as its motto: "On your feet or on your knees for Blue Oyster Cult."

Evidently it means either cheer the music or submit to it. The Randhurst crowd chose to cheer it.

BOC comes across as a strange blend of old Bill Haley and the Comets featuring Jim Morrison-style vocals. But when the strobe lights (yes, they are still being used) come into play, the group become a mix of 1960s psychedelic images and a clenched fist, street-fighting band.

BUT, WHAT THE hell, everybody says the '70s are still seeking an identity, and BOC matches the confusion and ambiguity.

Lastly, a round of applause to the kids who showed that rockers can rip the joint without destroying it. After 20 years, rock, like it or not, is part of the musical landscape and can be played in the suburbs safely.

Keep on rocking, kids. It's finally come home.

"OLDIES BUT goodies" in operetta will be performed by Carolyn Papai, Anne Gross, seated, and Winifred Saunderson, all of Palatine, on Friday, Feb. 13, at a fund-raiser hosted by Barrington Lyric Opera Chapter. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sirotek Jr. are sponsors of the event, which includes cocktails and buffet supper at Lake Barrington Shores Recreation Center. Also in the musical troupe are Richard Carter and Robert Durnbaugh of the Chicago Symphony Chorus and Will Thomen and George Wood, both of Arlington Heights.

Bluff or extortion?

Box office 'rock' robbery

by STEPHEN FORD

It is a portentous wind that blows across the Atlantic from Britain's rock concert promoters. They declare the joyous tintinabulations of extravagant rock shows — dazzling lights, mind boggling props and mixed media stage presentations — will be drowned out by a funeral knell.

But after wading past the crepe hangers, one discovers that concert promoters in London have more dictated, not predicted, the demise of live concerts in a mendacious eulogy sounding more like the mortician bemoaning a shortage of bodies, not the lack of a cure for the plague.

PERHAPS ADOPTING the tactics so many other purveyors of creature comforts have profitably applied, rock promoters find extortion no small addition to their arsenal in the unending war with cost-conscious consumers.

And their current gripes seem like nothing more than an excuse for further robbery at the box office.

British promoters argue that unless London's metropolitan governing body rescinds a new ordinance requiring strict guidelines for future live shows, the rock concert is dead.

The ordinance in no way inhibits any artist from doing whatever he pleases on stage, within convention of course, but does require organizers of live shows to make provsions for what appear to be very logical safeguards to prevent injury to both fan and performer alike.

WITH THE BITTER memories of fans being crushed to death by their hysterical peers, others intimidated by punks on the prowl and even performers threatened on stage, the Greater London Council mandated sensible precautions such as adequate barriers being placed before the stage during concerts and a sufficient amount of security guards being retained to maintain order.

Promoters contend these requirements will cut deeply into their profit margin, thus making it less lucrative to hold live concerts.

They say unless these requirements are diluted, they'll put an end to live shows in Britain for most rock acts and scale down the usually grandiose performances by bands like Yes, the Who and the Rolling Stones so much that fans will think they've sprung all that money for a wake instead of a rock show.

Two mall shows at Countryside

Two shows are coming to Countryside Mall, Palatine, within the week, each filling the passageways with decorating ideas for shoppers.

An antique show by The Coellectique, a group of Chicagoland dealers, is scheduled Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. They will be featuring art deco and depression pieces, china, crystal and small furniture items.

A GARDEN OF green plants will surround the atrium at Countryside for its first indoor plant show and sale next Thursday through Sunday, Feb. 15. Hours will be 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily; noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Plant demonstrations will be given by Lynn Teach, owner of the terresphere in the center. Several panels of macrame hangings will be displayed, with free demonstrations on macrame scheduled. A special indoor lighting exhibition is also planned by Chicagoland Indoor Lighting Society.

Julie Harris to star in one-woman play

Julie Harris will star in a new one-woman play about poet Emily Dickinson, "The Belle of Amherst," due to open on Broadway April 20 after tryouts in Seattle, Denver, Chicago and Boston. The author is William Luce. (UPI).

Crepes can be entree or dessert

Whenever my friends from Ranchland, U.S.A., visit, we go out for crepes. They are about as scarce in the "land of meat and potatoes" as fresh-from-the-sea lobster. Often we dine at the Magic Pan in Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg.

The atmosphere, cheerful and cozy, is further offset by a country European decor. Even the waiters and waitresses are dressed in peasant costumes. On a first visit it's interesting to watch the crepes being made on the "crepe wheel" near the entrance to the restaurant.

Featuring:
Magic Pan

On our most recent outing we began our meal with salad. There are four different ones available — avocado, shrimp, spinach and tossed.

MY FRIEND enjoyed the shrimp salad, $1.35, consisting of tiny shrimp in an oil and vinegar dressing. I ordered the spinach salad. My favorite, it's made with fresh, whole spinach leaves, sprinkled with chopped bacon and hard-boiled egg and all topped with a sweet/sour dressing, $1.35. It is excellent.

For the entree my partner ordered Beef Bourguignon and spinach souffle crepes, $4.05. He was truly impressed with the beef crepe, which is stuffed with a filling of beef chunks and onion in a red wine sauce and then topped with a mushroom sauce.

I chose a combination of Crispy Ham, Alpine Cheese Sizzle and Spinach Souffle, $3.05. The first two, either stuffed with ham or cheese, are deep-fat fried. A sweet/sour sauce accompanies them. Both are very good and quite different from the traditional crepe.

THE SPINACH souffle is another favorite dish of mine at the Magic Pan. Stuffed with a filling of spinach in a white sauce, the crepe is served with a sprinkling of Parmesan cheese on top.

Ken Peifer, manager of the Magic Pan, said most women order the spinach crepe because they think it has fewer calories than many of the others. But he added that most people, me included, order it with the cheese sauce and that eliminates any weight-watching benefits.

Other crepes include shrimp, chicken, crab, vegetable combinations and mushroom. Prices for crepe entrees range from a little over $2 to about $5.

Though I'm usually too full to order a dessert crepe, the seasonal fresh fruit crepes occasionally overcome my will power.

ONCE WE ORDERED a southern Praline Crepe, $1.75, a concoction of vanilla ice cream wrapped in a crepe and covered with a hot praline sauce. All this is topped with spiced whipped cream and toasted pecans.

Of course it is a dieter's nightmare, but then how often does a person have the opportunity to eat one?

Another time I tried Crepes Beignet, $2.95. These are crispy pieces of crepe (deep-fat fried) dunked in either a hot, brandied apricot sauce or hot, brandied chocolate sauce. I preferred the chocolate; the apricot was too sweet. The finger-food dessert is nice for three or four people to split if they just want a taste of dessert after the meal.

The Magic Pan is also open for lunch, but allow extra time. Shoppers have discovered crepes, too. Specials, with two instead of three crepes, are priced lower accordingly.

ONE INTERESTING note. Elaine Tench of Arlington Heights, who is active with Johanna Bureau for the Blind in Chicago, recently transcribed the Magic Pan menus into braille.

Wear what you wish to the Magic Pan. It's as formal or informal as you care to make it. Reservations are not needed.

Actors feel anguish of X-rated stardom

by LEW KOCH

Many people today are uncomfortable about pornographic movies. They are concerned that explicit sex as depicted in porno or sex-ploitation films weakens the moral fiber, stretches the boundaries of what is permissible, attracts and lures people into experimenting with what is shown on the screen.

Linda Lovelace, Xaviera Hollander and Marilyn Chambers make their tasks in porno films sound harmless, if not downright enjoyable. But a new documentary film called "A Labor of Love" gives the lie to Lovelace and company. The documentary tells us what it is really like to make an X-rated film and the personal costs to those performing sex acts on film.

In November 1974 two young filmmakers, Robert Flaxman and Daniel Goldman were allowed to take their cameras and sound equipment to record how a film company, complete with actors, actresses, director, cameramen and others went about making a motion picture which was to contain explicit sex scenes.

AS WE WATCH the documentary "A Labor of Love" we follow the director as he arranges the sex scenes and then listen, as the director tells Flaxman and Goldman how much he despised what he was doing.

We watch as one actress performs an explicit sex act and then tells the documentary cameras how she really tried to make the scene "good" because she had been "dumb enough to believe" there should be good acting in pornography. We hear a male actor brag about his preference for "kinky sex with chicks" and then watch as he tries to participate in explicit sex but becomes impotent and finally has to be replaced by a stand-in. We see an older actor complete his explicit sex scene with a young girl and then admit, "It was something we shouldn't have done," while the girl, filled with self-revulsion, pleads with the documentary filmmakers to turn their cameras off.

We have all heard how degrading it is to perform in an X-rated film but now the degradation is documented. We have heard how boring, tedious, how unexciting pornography is but now the forced, pleasureless aspect becomes overwhelmingly evident. This is the aspect of pornography many of us would like society, including young people, to understand.

BUT IN ORDER TO capture the full impact and range of emotions which go into making a sex-ploitation film, the documentary, of necessity, contains the filmings of two of the explicit sex scenes. That is why "A Labor of Love" will not be shown on television.

And because the viewer of the documentary can arrive at no other conclusion but that such films are degrading to those who participate in them, "A Labor of Love" will not be shown at any of those X-rated movie houses. People don't go to those places to receive lessons on morals.

So producer-directors Robert Flaxman and Daniel Goldman now wonder who will see their movie. They hope to attract some interest from universities and colleges.

TWO YOUNG FILMMAKERS have made a brilliant documentary, one which should be seen by everyone — yet they can't find a market. "A Labor of Love" is a fitting title for a film which was made on credit, a film which took almost one full year to make and which isn't likely to be seen by more than a few thousand people. A labor of love, indeed.

'Sleuth' both mystery and laughs

Night out

by Genie Campbell

Anthony Shaffer has a way with words. He is the author of "SLEUTH" and if you haven't seen either the movie or play, or even if you have, you'll still enjoy COUNTRY CLUB COMEDY THEATRE'S production.

Of course, having already seen the mystery/comedy will somewhat spoil the initial impact of the surprise, twisted ending, the grand finale of the staged, dangerous battle of wits.

Yet having seen the show is an advantage, too. It's easier to skim the plot and concentrate more on Shaffer's dialog. Seldom have I seen a play with as much vocal, vivid description. Shaffer never injects the same adjective twice, and he combines the most sophisticated and philosophical of phrases with the most earthy accusations.

"You are king of the marshmallow snakes . . ." is neighbor as crude nor worldly as he gets, yet indicates Shaffer's feel for originality.

It's important that theatergoers hang on every word because action takes second seat to the verbiage and unless one in ready to listen attentively, the play will have no meaning.

What also counts is Country Club Comedy Theatre's choice of LAWRENCE McCAULEY and MICHAEL-JON SIMS in the two lead roles.

McCauley plays Andrew, an eccentric English detective writer, whose love for games and intrigue becomes a crazy obsession.

The play opens as Andrew invites his neighbor Milo (Mike Sims) over to his country estate for a friendly drink and chat. The two men are already well acquainted through Andrew's wife. She is the nucleus around which all the cruel, nightmare games evolve and quickly mushroom into fatal proportion.

Larry McCauley

Interestingly enough, Shaffer has divided this play into halves with either one or the other character decidedly showing the upper hand. But like any game, leads can continually change, and this is one of the successful ironies of "Sleuth."

McCauley is great. He exploits Andrew's evil streak but puts enough fresh expression into his role to amuse people as well as intimidate them. He weaves his web on Milo who turns around and employs his own tactics of getting even.

LARRY PETERSON'S elaborate setting is highlighted by special effects that provide even more ammunition for the surprise effects of the play to take hold. And guest director JOHN MARQUETTE does a fine job in fitting all the individual pieces together.

Seemingly no detail has been left undone. Except the scotch, that is. It looks too much like Coca-Cola.

Country Club Comedy Theatre will begin again its Monday night SHOWCASE THEATRE starting this Monday. The opening production is Harold Pinter's "THE BIRTHDAY PARTY." The Monday night shows are meant to provide a dramatic change of pace to the regular season of comedies. Tickets are $2.50.

The one-man show is a portrayal of Adoph Hitler, the man, during his final hour before committing suicide on April 30, 1945. Playing Hitler is Chicago actor WILLIAM J. NORRIS.

Preston Jones' portrait of West Texas in the early 1960s, "THE LAST MEETING OF THE KNIGHTS OF THE WHITE MAGNOLIA" will have its midwest premiere at Goodman Theatre Feb. 19 - March 21. Previews begin next Friday.

Witch doctor drops by to visit

by VERNON SCOTT

The gentry sipping noonday Bloody Marys at the posh Beverly Hills Polo Lounge suffered massive shock the other day when an African witch doctor strode through the chic crowd for a bowl of soup.

He was not an extra from Central Casting in ceremonial feathers and native costume plugging "King Kong." The pretty people could have accepted that.

No. This was the genuine article.

His name is Credo Mutua, a short, heavy-set, bespectacled native of South Africa who wore a rumpled green suit and plaid flannel shirt. He carried a black cane, but it was his necklace which arrested one's attention.

IT WAS A YOKE of beaten copper, weighing 40 pounds, imprinted with primitive legends, dangling various ornaments, including three large green rocks which Credo identified as verdite.

Happily, Credo had not descended on the Polo Lounge to cast a spell on the merrymakers. He uttered not a single incantation.

A sober man of solemn mien, Credo had come to Hollywood for the usual reason — the movies. But unlike most pilgrims, he does not want to become a star. He has written a story he hopes will become a film.

Accompanying Credo was John Amos, the handsome black star of the "Good Times" television series who is writing a script from the witch doctor's outline. He will also star in the film, titled "Shaka."

IN ADDITION TO his witch doctoring, Credo is a writer, painter, sculptor, a man of substance among the black people of South Africa.

He has worn the 200-year-old copper and stone yoke, which he calls necklace of knowledge, since 1947 when it passed into his hands on the death of his grandfather.

In precise and careful English, Credo said, "We do not call ourselves witch doctors. We do not practice witchcraft. We are called children of the moon.

"Witch doctors are very much needed in my country. We are priests, scientists, teachers, marriage authorities, psychologists and experts in all things. Our knowledge is not based on superstition. It is based on truth and tradition."

CREDO IS ABLE to cast a curse when called upon but is prudent about such things.

"We do not give faith a name," said Credo. "But my people believe in Christianity because it resembles the belief of people like me, a universal faith in the great truth. It is a link which binds mankind together.

" 'Shaka' is a film which will not put races into confrontation. It is a human story. Shaka fought his own people, not whites."

"We will shoot the picture in South Africa," Amos said. "Naturally, we're raising money in this country and I hope Sidney Poitier will direct it. 'Shaka' will be the first true African epic."

CREDO SPOKE of his museum in Soweto, near Johannesburg, where he said thousands of Africans visit witch doctors yearly.

He finished his soup and it was time to leave. Once again Credo was the center of all eyes when he departed.

It isn't often the Beverly Hills crowd gets a look at a doctor who isn't preoccupied with malpractice insurance. In that respect, if no other, Credo Mutua is certainly unique.

He is the husband of two wives, one physical, one spiritual. He is also the father of seven children who remained in Africa with both wives.

Currently Credo is obsessed with bringing the story of "Shaka" to the screen.

"Shaka was a famous warrior who founded the Zulu nation," he explained. "He died in 1882 and now is worshiped almost as a god by some of the younger people.

"A GREAT DEAL has been written about Shaka. Now it is time his story was brought to the screen for all the world to see. I've come here to talk to John Amos, who is the best possible actor to play the role. We have no performers of his caliber in Africa."

Amos treats Credo with great respect and deference. He was especially attentive when the witch doctor embarked on a learned dissertation of the similarities of Christianity and ancient African religious precepts.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

We've progressed in treating cancer

What has happened to the progress in cancer research? So many old people are dying with cancer.

My mother was in her 80s and suffered through two years of cancer. It is so painful for everyone concerned.

Has the money for cancer research been drastically reduced or what?

Progress in treating cancer is alive and well. The American Cancer Society (ACS) reports that one in three persons is saved from cancer today while 25 years ago only one of four patients was saved. That's progress even if the battle hasn't been completely won. That is a gain in saving 55,000 lives a year. What's more the ACS claims that if all available tools were used properly, the savings would actually be 111,000 lives a year.

Things have changed in the cancer picture. In a little more than 20 years the incidence of stomach cancer has decreased 63 per cent and cancer of the uterus 37 per cent. Lung cancer is up 125 per cent. Other cancers on the increase are cancer of the colon, prostate, pancreas and of the bladder in men (but decreased in women).

Note the big winner of the increased sweepstakes is lung cancer. About 90 per cent of lung cancer occurs in cigaret smokers and presumably most of these could be prevented. How? By simply not smoking. There is a 17-fold increased risk of death from lung cancer in the group who smoke just 20 cigarets a day.

THE AMERICAN Cancer Society gives three reasons for the improved outlook in cancer. Early detection, treatment within four months of diagnosis and the use of new diagnostic and treatment methods.

Dr. Lewis Thomas, president of Memorial Sloan-Kettering, one of the nation's foremost cancer centers, predicted recently that the mystery of cancer will be solved in 25 years. He thinks they all represent one disease and one basic mechanism controls all cancer.

He may be right. Certainly cancer is cell growth and replacement, a process necessary to our normal body functions, that has gone wild. When we understand the mechanisms of controlling the regeneration of cells and are able to control these fundamental life processes, we will certainly know enough to control cancer.

I think that is a strong argument for studying aging processes. When we unlock the secrets of basic cell regeneration and how to control this mechanism, not only will be be able to do something dramatic about cancer, but we will have made a giant step toward preventing biological aging and many of the medical ills of our time.

FOR INFORMATION on where we are on preventing aging send 50 cents for The Health Letter, Number 1-7, Perpetual Youth, Aging. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

There is an enormous amount of cancer research going on. Perhaps not enough, but until the problem is solved, any amount won't be enough. I think the real neglected area is the basic research necessary to understand the life processes that would lead to preventing physical aging. We know so much about this already that an effort similar to that to land men on the moon could unlock this riddle in less than 20 years. It would make it possible to literally prevent or reverse aging and the social implications are enormous.

A word of caution on washing plastic

Dear Dorothy: I've been using the new insulated containers for the children's lunches because they don't contain any glass. They're great since they come in a range of sizes and lip widths. However, I've found these are best washed by hand. The two I put in the dishwasher no longer fit perfectly. They work at home, but can't be carried in the lunch boxes as they leak. Thought others ought to know this. — Glenda Grissom

You've sent off a little bell here. I'm delighted you wrote. So many people — particularly the young — never give thought to what they put in dishwashers. My own family is guilty of stuffing their washers with wooden items (salad bowls and spoons), rubber scrapers and, worst, plastics. The only plastics that belong in a dishwasher are the heavy kind, and then put as far as possible from the heating element. Heaven knows how much Americans waste every year through don't-give-a-hoot handling of their things.

Dear Dorothy: The question that arose about spreading cookie dough reminds me of a problem I had a year or so ago with fudge. My old faithful recipe suddenly failed. After several unhappy episodes, I discovered it was the sugar. If a bag does not say cane sugar, it probably is beet sugar and it definitely was the cause of my problem. When a sudden change takes place in home baking, I think this is one thing to look into immediately. — M. K. Little

Dear Dorothy: Thought others would like to know that I used paste wax when my youngster decided to mark up the kitchen cabinets and the refrigerator with red crayon. The wax did the job. — Louise Crawford

Good hint. Red crayon is the worst kind of mark.

Ask Andy

Naturalists can't crack squirrel's nut filing system

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Kelly Blokland, 12, of Louisville, Neb., for her question:
HOW DOES A SQUIRREL FIND ALL THE NUTS HE BURIES?

Pity the poor city dweller who has never walked through the autumn woods with the fallen leaves crunching beneath his feet and the scoldings of a tree squirrel in his ears. Even during the long winter months a walk in the woods will bring the familiar "chirr, chirr, chirr," letting us know that we have passed too close to his tree.

Members of the rodent family, squirrels of countless varieties are found in most parts of the world. And possibly the gray squirrel of North America is our best-known wild mammal. The word "squirrel" comes from two Greek words that mean shadow or shade tail. Their 7-12 inch tail is very important to them, and they spend a great deal of time grooming it. However, don't get the mistaken idea that this is vanity on the squirrel's part. His bushy adornment is a vital necessity, and its purpose is to help maintain and correct his balance during his breathtaking leaps from bough to bough in his forest home.

The tree squirrels are generally active by day, spending their nights sleeping in their snug burrows. They are, by habit, hoarders of nuts, fruits, seeds and other types of vegetable foods. Squirrels do not usually store nuts for the long winter in one large cache — they bury them haphazardly throughout their area of the forest. Naturalists estimate a hardworking gray squirrel will bury five nuts every 3½ minutes. During the three-month season that leads up to winter, as many as 10,000 nuts could be stashed away.

How the squirrel finds his hidden caches of nuts during the winter has always been a source of wonder. The answer, quite simply, is that he doesn't. Many people who study squirrels believe that his superior sense of smell is vital in finding hidden stores of food. Other naturalists feel that the squirrel, being a very intelligent animal, buries his winter food stores in the most likely places. Then, during the winter when the snow is deep, he goes to the most likely places and digs.

Andy certainly would not want a squirrel to go hungry during the winter, but he is quietly happy that all the stored nots are not found. For hickory, butternut and walnuts will not sprout unless planted underground. And who else but the energetic squirrel could possibly be responsible for many of our wild nut groves?

In areas with mild winters squirrels may breed twice a year, in early spring and again in late summer. The mother may carry the young in her body for 36 to 45 days. Usually from two to seven blind and hairless babies are born. They stay with their mother for eight weeks or so and then begin searching for their own food.

Lovelorn lady got start in the clouds

by JOAN HANAUER

LOS ANGELES — Kelly Lange didn't go through personnel for her first job in broadcasting — she won it in a contest.

When Miss Lange came to Los Angeles in 1967 she saw a long line of women and joined it because she thought something was being given away free.

It turned out to be a contest and she won first price — a job as traffic reporter for a local radio station. Miss Lange went on to be a television weather girl, feature interviewer and now she's gone national to preside over network television's only advice-to-the-lovelorn show.

Recalling the start of her career, Miss Lange said:

"I WROTE my mother in Massachusetts — a very dear, very practical-minded Boston lady — that I had won this big Hollywood contest and the prize is I get up at 4 o'clock every morning and fly through the smog in a helicopter giving traffic reports every 10 minutes.

"My mother called me immediately and said, 'Honey, they can't make you do it'."

But, do it she did — for five years.

As television's lovelorn lady, Miss Lange appears with a pair of celebrity couples on "Take My Advice," which airs daily from 11:30 to noon. Viewer letters are read, the celebrity guests discuss the problem, then celebrities and studio audiences vote on the proposed solution.

"A LOT OF people write in about the same problems," Miss Lange said. "A big percentage involve money problems.

"Another big area of concern is couples who have been married a long time — 15 or 20 years or whatever — and they aren't hearing violins anymore. They can't accept that. A lot of people apparently are bored with marriage and don't know what do do."

Miss Lange has noticed that the letters from unmarried couples living together pose the same problems that puzzle the legally married — money, jealousy and the like. The panel will discuss anything from health to women's liberation to homosexuality, a far cry from the old days in the lovelorn business.

Dummy play is smart one

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Betsey Wolff uses our acronym ARCH in her teaching of play. A is Analyze the lead, R is Review the bidding. C Count your winners and losers. H the all important: How can I make (or if defending, defeat) this contract?

The Analysis of the nine of spades lead is top of nothing and probably a doubleton. Review of the bidding indicates that West will hold the club ace since with five spades to the ace-jack and a side ace East would have overcalled one spade.

How can I make the contract leads to the play of the queen of spades from dummy. This unusual second hand high play guarantees declarer's success as long as Analysis of the opening lead has been correct. As you can see if East plays the ace of spades and leads a second spade it will run around to dummy's 10. If East ducks West will get in with the ace of clubs but declarer's king of spades will be a second stopper.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Forest View hosts league mat tourney

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

A free-for-all . . . a donnybrook . . . a barn burner . . .

There is no saner description for the gathering about to take place at Forest View High School.

Over 150 wrestlers will gather in the Falcon gymnasium this weekend, beginning at six o'clock tonight, and perhaps for want of a more apt title, it shall be called the 1976 Mid-Suburban League mat tournament.

A genuine, old-fashion, down-and-out wingdinger is more like it. Never before in the history of the MSL have so many been still in the running at so late a date and so little been so certain about so many aspects.

Basically, there are four main contenders for the MSL crown shared by Elk Grove and Hersey last winter. There are at least five other dark horse candidates in the chase for the team title and while their chances of claiming overall honors are slim, they will no doubt play a major role in determining a '76 kingpin.

On an individual basis, the tournament is just as topsy turvy. Not one single champion has returned to defend his title and there are, in fact, only four wrestlers back on the scene out of 25 finalists from the 1975 loop clash at Elk Grove. What all this amounts to is great promise for an exciting and dramatic meet, one in which virtually any bout and any verdict could have an impact on the outcome.

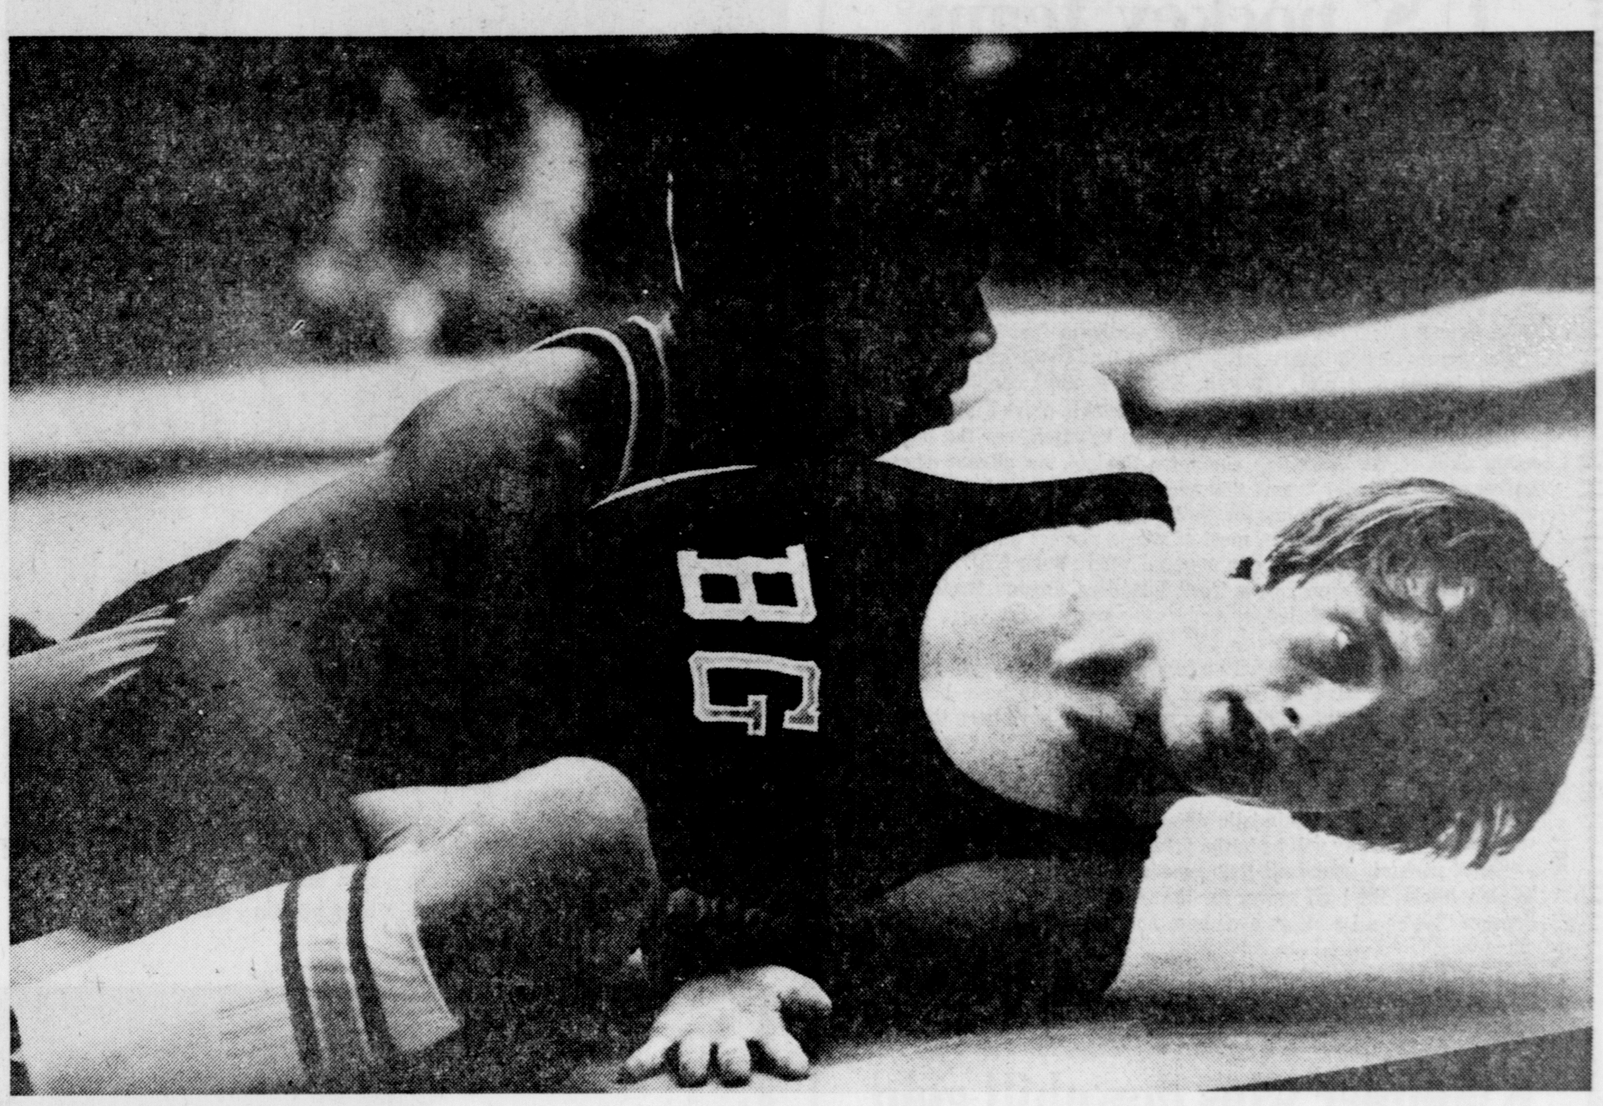

The chief team contenders are the Huskies and Grenadiers again along with Buffalo Grove and Conant. Each will carry 5½ valuable points into the tournament where scoring for the overall crown is to be passed out on a descending basis, from 12 points for first place down to zero for last.

Palatine will take in four points, Hoffman Estates and Rolling Meadows will each have 3½ and Arlington and Wheeling will each have 2½. In order for one of these secondary challengers then to sweep off with the big throne, they would have to receive so much help from other secondary clubs slipping in behind them.

Indifidually, it's going to be pretty much a case of anything goes. Some weights are so loaded with talent that it would surprise no one to see wrestlers competing up over their certified weights.

Only one grappler takes a perfect record into the fray. Buffalo Grove's EASY RIDER. Buffalo Grove veteran Rich Wilhem has headly been in this much trouble all season and is one of the surer bets in a generally unpredictable Mid-Suburban conference wrestling tournament. Action gets underway at six o'clock tonight in Forest View's gym. Wilhelm, owning a 28-0 record, will be aiming for the 119-pound title.

Girls to bowl today, Saturday in district tournament headliners

by PAUL LOGAN

There used to be just two kids on the block.

The "kids" were the Forest View and Schaumburg girls' bowling teams. The "block" was the district tournament.

During the first three years of the high school state tourney, both teams would win district titles and finish high in the Peoria hosted finals. But those days of dominating the lanes may have passed.

When these two teams host their districts this weekend, several teams have good shots to knock off these perennial powers.

The Schaumburg District will be held today, starting at 11:30 a.m. at Streamwood Lanes. Also in attendance will be Rolling Meadows, Fremd, Hoffman Estates, Conant and Elk Grove.

Starting on Saturday at 9 a.m, Forest View will play host to Arlington, Hersey, Buffalo Grove, Prospect, Palatine and Wheeling at Beverly Lanes.

The Rolling Meadows Mustangs have to be considered the favorites on the strength of their second-place Mid-Suburban League finish. Already known as the only team to ever beat Forest View in a league match, the Mustangs also came within a point of winning the MSL championship.

Until the districts, MSL schools competed with four-player 'A' and 'B' teams. "When you get down to a five-player team (for districts), it's a whole different thing," said Mustang coach Joan Jensen. "Our conference has a lot of good 'A' teams. I really think anything goes at the district when you've got five people."

Jensen said a lot of her team's success this season came as a result of having a strong eight-player team. Still, she was confident of her district team.

"If everybody bowls their best, we'll have a championship team," she said.

Schaumburg finished fourth in the MSL. The Saxons have placed second ('73), third ('74) and 11th ('75) at the state rolloffs.

The Forest View Falcons will be tough to beat if some of the frustration still lingers from last year's state finals. They finished second to Dixon, a team dominated by boy bowlers.

"They really consider themselves No. 1," said Falcon coach Pam Frase. "But I told them they have to prove it this year."

Forest View, which was the state champ in 1974 and a ninth-place finisher in '73, has a veteran team. Still, Frase said that Buffalo Grove is (3rd in the MSL), Arlington (5th) and Prospect (6th).

Former St. Viator cage coach is top-ranked official

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

The face was familiar, but it was difficult to get a good look because there was a whistle clenched between his teeth.

He also didn't stay in one place very long because the fast pace of the basketball action sent him dashing up and down the floor — and in and out of my television screen.

I like to spend my Saturdays watching college basketball on the tube, and this familiar face popped up on my screen about three weeks ago when Notre Dame was playing Xavier.

Where had I seen that official before? As the game developed, I kept waiting for some clue from the announcers, but it was Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps, wired for sound, who said it first:

"Come on, Ronnie, let the kids play!"

Ronnie? Then I remembered as I watched a few more minutes. Ron Feiereisel. That was it.

Turn the calendar back, area basketball fans, to those years when St. Viator High School was just a toddler and everything was so fresh and new. Ron Feiereisel was the first basketball coach at the school, starting in 1961 and serving three seasons.

Eleven years had passed since I last talked with Ron, and I knew that had to be remedied this week. After all, I flipped on the set last Saturday to watch Notre Dame play Maryland and there he was doing his thing again, whistle still clenched between his teeth with a national television audience looking on.

"I think that's my last television show this year," Feiereisel laughed when contacted at his State Farm Insurance office in Evanston.

"I've been fortunate on some of my officiating assignments, and I thoroughly enjoyed working that Notre Dame-Maryland game. Sure, there were thousands there, and they were noisy but its actually easier to work that type of game.

"Both teams came to play basketball. The kids were keyed up. They weren't looking for trouble. There was no unnecessary pushing or shoving because there was a lot at stake and nobody wanted to hurt their team."

Feiereisel has been officiating basketball since he left St. Viator High School. A former DePaul University All-American who also served as a Blue Demon assistant with Ray Meyer, Ron admits he has been "lucky with a lot of people very good to me."

He worked with such youngsters as Jim Murray, Kenny Hoffman and Charley Grandt in those difficult building years at St. Viator and enjoyed the association with the teenagers, but a business career pulled him out of coaching in 1964.

The officiating just came naturally for this former college star who always will carry as one of his fondest memories playing in the NCAA basketball tourney. He was the leader on the DePaul team that fell by two points to Indiana's Don Schlundt-led Hoosiers.

"Officiating has been good to me," he said. "There's a lot of traveling involved, but I've been fortunate to meet many people and make a lot of nice friends. Sure, there are rough games, rough crowds and difficult coaches, but I enjoy the work. Let's face it. It's an experience any time you work on a basketball floor. You have to enjoy it.

"I did about 65 games for a couple years in the early days of the American Basketball Assn.," he said, "but now stick pertty much with the colleges, big or small. Just the other day I worked a Harper College game and that just might have been the first time I was back in the St. Viator gym since I coached there."

Feiereisel has cut back on his schedule because he has other weekend obligations — watching his children play basketball. "That's a real pleasure for me," he said, "and there are some nights when I just won't officiate no matter what the assignment. I want to be able to see the kids play."

Ron's son Gary plays for Loyola University and Mark is a starter at Loyola Academy. Scott plays for Mayfair Junior College and appears headed to dad's alma mater, DePaul, and daugher Joann is a sophomore basketball and volleyball star for St. Scholastica.

Feiereisel takes pride in the work of officials and says you just tune out the crowd "once that ball is thrown up. You just can't let the crowd get to you, and it's probably easier to work with thousands there than just a few hundred. With the small crowd one guy with a loud voice stands out."

The block or charge and goal-tending give Feiereisel his toughest calls, and he is a strong believer in the benefits of the three officials system.

"It just has to go that way for the colleges and pros," he said. "Three officials have to do a better job, keeping you sharper, more mentally alert in the final minutes. The coverage would be better because no matter what kind of condition an official is in, with two teams running and pressing, you have to get a little tired at the end.

"I play a lot of racquetball at the start of any season to get in shape, and then work some scrimmages," he said, "but you can still feel it after a game. Remember, the kids play the game so fast today. It's tough for two men to cover 10, especially when you're moving constantly with your partner without relief. The teams are substituting."

For Ron Feiereisel, the work as an official has enabled him to stay in a game he loves, a game that has been very good to him. He fondly remembers those early years at St. Viator.

"I know I would have missed coaching and the involvement with the sport if I hadn't stayed in it this way," he said. "Basketball obviously is still a very big part of my life. I wouldn't want it any other way."

Winter Olympics

United States in fast start

INNSBRUCK (UPI) — Bill Koch and Sheila Young earned the United States two silver awards today in the first three medal events of the Winter Olympics while Austria's favored Franz Klammer won the spectacular downhill ski race to start a round of wild celebrating by his countrymen.

Both American medals were unexpected. Koch, 20, made history by becoming the first ever U.S. runner to win an Olympic cross-country medal, while Young, one of the favorites at the sprint distances, won her award at 1,500 meters. In each case the Americans split the powerhouse Russians.

Koch, of Guilford, Vt., was lying in fourth place behind three Russians after two-thirds of the 18.6-mile race, but he finished in brilliant fashion and was only 28 seconds behind Russian winner Sergecy Saveliev at the finish. Savelien clocked 1.30:29.38. Ivan Garinin was third.

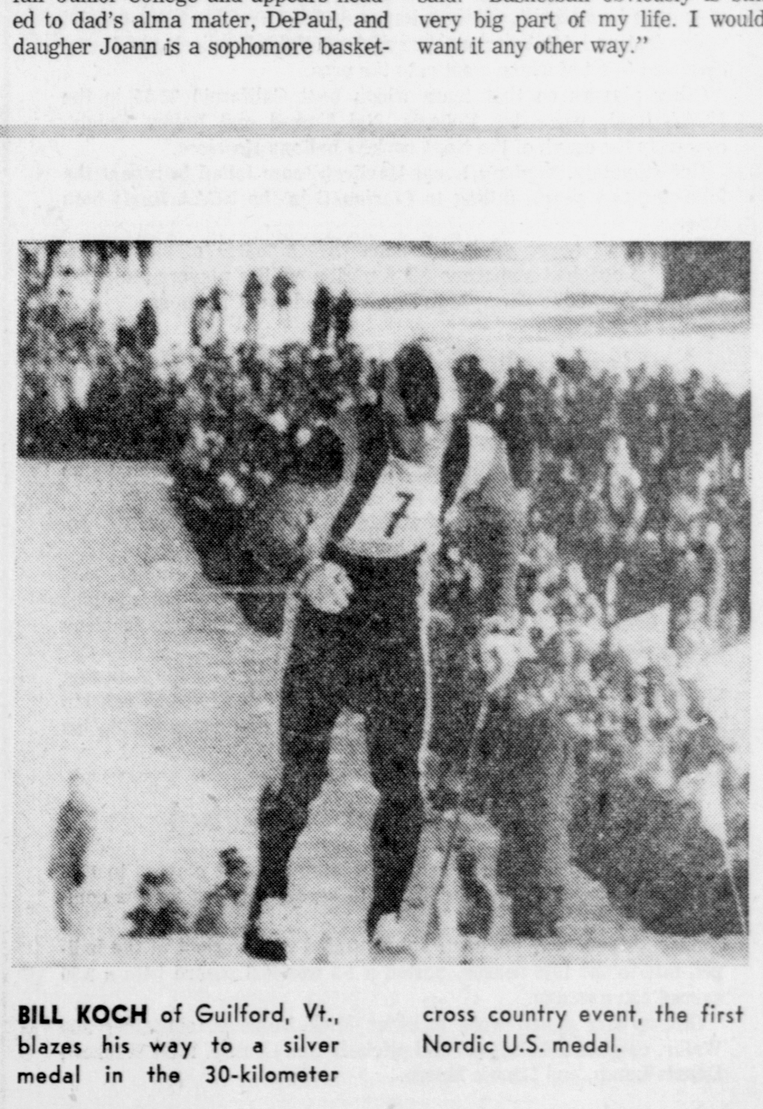

"It's one of the best races I have ever run," said a breathless Koch at the finish as he was embraced by jubilant teammates. "I ran my hardest, you can count on that."

Koch, in his first season as a senior after a brilliant junior career racing in Europe, was picked to finish in the top 10 and given an outside chance of a medal.

U.S. hockey team ready for Reds

Totally fearless, if not childishly reckless, the United States hockey team approaches Friday's suicidal meeting against Russia with — gulp — a measure of confidence.

"They can be had," was the gut feeling of the Yanks after their stylish display of skating and high-powered shooting had carried them to an 8-4 qualifying victory over Yugoslavia Tuesday night.

The game, which helps initiate the round-robin championship series, begins at 4 p.m. (10 a.m. EST). In other opening games Poland meets West Germany and Czechoslovakia plays Finland.

Lost in the translation of the American reaction was the frightening skill of the defending champion Soviets, an all-star aggregation of the two club teams that recently won five and tied one of an eight-game series against the National Hockey League.

Yet the young U. S. team, most of whose players still are undergraduates, likes to think it can succeed where such NHL clubs as the Montreal Canadiens, New York Islanders, Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks failed.

Why?

Let Steven Jensen, a man with a future in the pros, explain:

"The Russians have got eight or 10 players who have been on that team for more than eight years and already have been through two Olympics. I've talked to some Czech players and the Finns, and they feel the Russians have had it up to here with hockey. They can be tired with it."

How about another optimistic opinion from another young man who almost certainly will be in the pros next season?

"Don't make it sound all that one-sided," offered Bob Dobek of Taylor, Mich., the high scorer for the Olympians and a linemate of Jensen. "We're all athletes over here and we put our skates on the same way.

"Remember also that we beat Spartak, which is the No. 1 team now in Russia (the Olympians upset Spartak, 6-5, in a Christmas tournament in Colorado Springs)."

Klammer wins downhill gold

INNSBRUCK — Austrian sports hero Franz Klammer recovered from a near fall at the top of the course in the Olympic downhill Thursday to beat 1972 gold medalist Bernhard Russi of Switzerland and set ski-crazy Austrians dancing in the snow.

The 22-year-old Klammer, who has dominated downhill racing for two years, clocked one minute, 45.06 seconds down the icy Patscherkofel Mountain at a vertical drop of 2,865 feet. Russi took the silver medal in 1:46.06 and the bronze medal went to Italian Herbert Plank in 1:46.06.

Andy Mill, 22, of Aspen, Colo., managed to place sixth for the best American showing despite a painful leg injury he suffered in a spectacular spill 48 hours before the race. He used snow for a painkiller and skied with a piece of cardboard in his boot, trying to outrace the pain.

Messersmith opens bidding

Baseball club owners are free to bid right now on the services of pitcher Andy Messersmith, his business agent said Thursday.

Messersmith, playing golf in Palm Springs, is pleased with a judge's ruling confirming his free agent status and would listen to offers including one from the Los Angeles Dodgers, the club for which he played last season.

"He's gratified with the decision," said Herb Osmond who will do the negotiating with owners if they decide to bid on Messersmith. "He thought that's the way it would turn out."

Osmond said he felt the ruling by Federal Judge John Oliver in Kansas City, Mo., supporting an arbitrator's decision in making Messersmith and Dave McNally free agents, would permit any baseball club to contact the players.

"At this point," he said, "it would not be tampering . . . not that they have to make us an offer but at least they would have to talk to us."

In his remark about tampering, Osmond referred to a statement made by Buzzie Bavasi, president of the San Diego Padres.

Bavasi was quoted as saying, "If you asked me if I was interested in signing Messersmith and I said no, you'd say I was stupid. If I said yes, you'd say I was tampering."

Club owners are expected to meet Monday in New York to decide whether they should seek a stay and appeal the ruling.

Fred Taylor to resign

Fred Taylor, dean of Big Ten basketball coaches, Thursday asked to be relieved of his Ohio State coaching duties and to be reassigned at the completion of his current contract in July.

"No one could have appreciated more than I the opportunity to coach basketball at Ohio State," Taylor wrote to OSU President Harold L. Enarson. "This position that I have held since June, 1958, has afforded me immeasurable satisfaction and innumerable thrills.

"However, for those personal reasons mentioned in our earlier conversations, I ask to be relieved of my coaching duties and to be reassigned at the completion of my present contract," stated Taylor

Taylor had the privilege of coaching what is considered to be one of college basketball's all-time teams — the 1960 Ohio State quintet which featured All Americas Jerry Lucas, John Havlicek and Larry Siegfried — all of whom went onto the pros.

Other players on that team which beat California 75-55 in the NCAA finals were Joe Roberts, Nel Nowell and Bobby Knight, currently the coach of the No. 1 ranked Indiana Hoosiers.

Unfortunately, Taylor's Lucas-Havlicek team failed to repeat the following two years, falling to Cincinnati in the NCAA finals both times.

Taylor was never again to reach that pinnacle of success although he coached numerous All America calibre players including Gary Bradds, Luke Witte, Alan Hornyak and Jim Cleamons.

LaGrange's Owen Brown is dead

Owen Brown, a former starting forward for the University of Maryland and an all-state high school player from Illinois, died from an apparent heart attack during a pickup basketball game Wednesday night in Leesburg, Va.

Brown, 22, had a history of irregular heart beat symptoms, according to Maryland head coach Lefty Driesell.

Dr. George T. Hocker, Loudoun County medical examiner, said Brown was stricken about 7 p.m. at the Xerox training complex where Brown was a student. He was dead on arrival at the Loudoun County Hospital

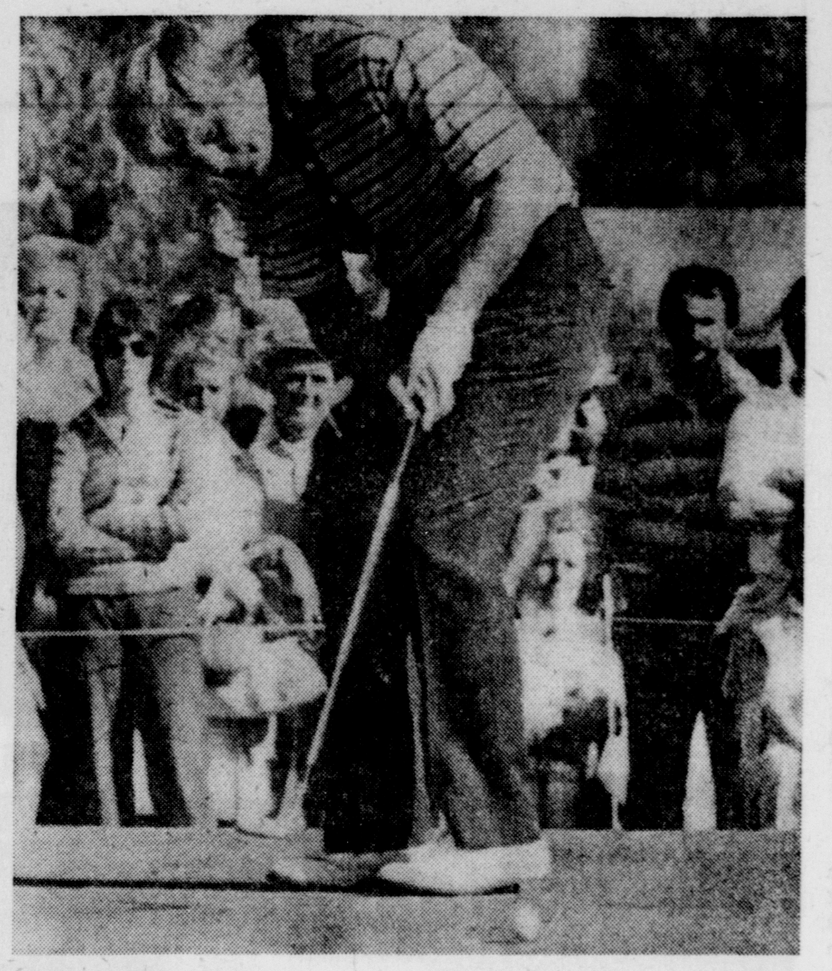

A 6-9 rebounder with an average of 10 to 12 points a game during his college career, Brown, from LaGrange, Ill., led Lyons Township High School to a 77-11 record and a state championship during his years there.

Cubs sign Paul Reuschel

The Chicago Cubs announced the signing of eight players to 1976 contracts Thursday, the first batch to agree to terms for the coming season.

Among them was pitcher Paul Reuschel who worked in the bullpen late in the 1975 season, posted a 1-3 won-lost record with a 3.50 earned run average.

Others who signed were infielder Mick Kelleher, outfielder Joe Wallis, catcher Ed Putnam and pitchers Ken Crosby, Mike Kurkow, Dennis Lamp, and Donnie Moore.

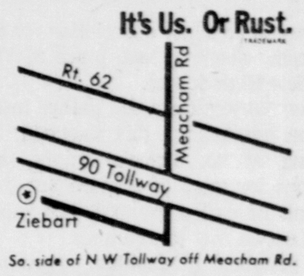

JACK WHO? Crowds at Bob Hope Desert Classic were following this man around the Palm Springs (Cal.) course on reputation alone. Since his horrendous 82 a couple of weeks ago, Jack Nicklaus has fired a 69 and a 70 and he's just four strokes off the lead heading into Friday.

Super Boat—the perfect gift

Jim Murray

Ever have the urge to get away from it all? Sail away to the South Pacific into the setting sun? Spend your life cruising the sapphire seas of Polynesia, the azimuthal nowheres of the Marquesas, the unchartered reefs of Paradise?

I have just the ticket for you. It's a steal. It's a one-owner, near-new, heat/air, XLNT cond., lo-mi., loaded family cruiser. You can take delivery tomorrow. But don't bring your BankAmericard, bring your bank.

It's all yours for $12.5 million — $3 million down and financing available for the rest. But, of course, J.P. Morgan said if you have to ask how much a yacht costs, you can't afford it.

Of course, you could put to sea for Bali Hai in a two-man kayak or a Chinese junk if you prefer. But the La Belle Simone is really the way to go.

If you'd rather not tie yourself down, you can rent her for $150,000 a month, or for $1,825,000 a year. Open-end lease.

You can invite nine friends along. She comes with a crew of 30, but has staterooms for only 10 passengers. There are three chefs — Chinese, French and Spanish — and her own physician. The captain and the bartender were formerly on the Queen Elizabeth II.

You may have to hurry to buy her before Long Beach moves to get her for a chop house. She can cruise at 20 knots, has a leather-lined elevator amidships and an interior like the Hilton Hotel lobby. A grand piano and 150-year-old Oriental rugs dot the deck. Her "lifeboats" are air-conditioned $60,000 launches convertible for water-skiing. There are four inflatable life rafts, if you'd rather rough it.

Put a gun on her and you could terrorize the high seas. Napoleon would have considered her a navy.

The owner is an American mystery man — not the Rockefellers nor Howard Hughes nor the CIA — who made his millions out of suburban sprawl and Wall Street. It is not a distress sale; he may build an aircraft carrier for himself next time out.

She was launched in Italy in 1972, and is of Liberian registry. The captain runs the ship from a leather-covered sofa. She is chandeliered, and the master bedroom has four picture windows which open like garage doors in case you want to take a quick dip in the sea instead of the sun-deck swimming pool.

If you want to be the first in your neighborhood to own one of these 250-foot, 1,500-ton flagships of the world's party boats, you can sign up at Booth 435 of the Southern California Boat show. But hurry. The offer is good only through 1984 or the end of the world, whichever comes first.

This is one boat you can't take home on a trailer or put in a slip at the Marina. She stands in the roads like a man o'war. She makes Onassis' Christina look like a copra boat.

She is the highest-priced boat ever offered for sale at a boat show. In fact, she is the highest-priced boat ever built without congressional appropriations.

Should you charter her, the wine and liquor are free. They figure even Errol Flynn would have a hard time disposing of five grand worth of liquor a day even if he threw it unopened in the sea. But the fuel is on you.

The prospects of adventure are limitless. You could have your own mutiny if you just put the crew on spam while you drank champagne out of a slipper or sent the plover's eggs back to the chef to be done over.

I'd buy her myself. Except, if I pay $12.5 million for a ship, I'd want Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis to come with it. Or, at least, Olivia de Havilland, or that opera singer Ari had.

Harper hosts league wrestling tournament Saturday

Triton is generally regarded as the team to beat at the N4C loop wrestling tournament being hosted by Harper Saturday.

The gathering, to be held at Eisenhower Junior High School in Hoffman Estates, will begin at noon with preliminary action. Consolation combat is scheduled for 6 p.m. Saturday with the finals getting underway at approximately 7 p.m. Eisenhower is located on Jones Road in Hoffman Estates.

Triton, which tied with Joliet at 6-1 for league dual meet honors, has a whole stable of top notch entries led by 190-pound vet Sam Carson who has fashioned a 36-4 record over two seasons. Other Trojan standouts include Dave Jenkins (118 pounds) with an 18-2 mark, Ray Conrad (126) who finished third in state as a prep matman from East Leyden, Mike Keene (134) who has only two ties on his record this year, Denny Moore (150) with a perfect 18-0 slate and the Nino brothers, Jose (177) and John (heavyweight) out of Kelvyn Park in Chicago.

For host coach Norm Lovelace, any threat to Triton will have to be made at the lower weights. The Hawks have a potent lineup through 158 with Jim Dugo at 17-1-1 leading off at 118.

Jamie King at 126 sports a 9-0 log, Neal Kendall at 134 is 18-0-1, Larry Johnson at 150 is 11-4, Dan Lynch at 142 is 9-4 and Eric Nickerson although only 3-1 at 158 is just coming off the injury list and should be ready by tournament time.

Among the other names to watch for Saturday are Thornton's Jeff Hansen (150), Rock Valley's Bob Fritz (150) and heavyweight Leon Black, Wright's Jim Jones (158), DuPage's Jeff Metzger (118), Larry Conrad (190) and heavyweight Mike Kranz, and Joliet's Derrick White (158), Ken Lewis (167) and Clifton Thurman (177).

Keefe basketball crowd decent but should have been better

I want to take this opportunity to chastise the people of the Northwest Suburbs for their disregard of a worthy cause, namely the Dave Keefe Memorial Basketball Game at Prospect High School on Wednesday. I'm sure there's no one to blame because I feel that the Prospect boosters involved in the memorial game for the late Prospect football coach did a good job of spreading the word about the game, which was entirely for the purpose of raising an education fund for Dave Keefe's children.

But somebody has to shoulder some of the responsibility for the mediocre turnout of people at the game. It was a decent-sized crowd but it should have been bigger. There was plenty of advance notice in The Herald newspaper and al the Mid-Suburban League high schools. So why weren't there more people in attendance?

It couldn't have been the weather which kept people away. And nothing else was going on that night that was really important.

The people who did attend the game should be proud and happy that they gave their time to so worthy a cause. Those who didn't attend can wonder why not.

ERNAGA REMEMBERED

Art Mugalian:

My brother and I really enjoyed your recent column about Frank Ernaga Jan. 28. We remember that day very much because we saw the game on home TV. The way Jack Brickhouse raved about Ernaga, we all thought this guy would be a "shoo-in" for the Hall of Fame. At the time I was 12 and my brother Ron was eight. In fact, my brother has been a devoted Cub fan since then because of that game.

Thanks very much for your many fine columns in the past.

Fans Forum:

Art Mugalian's article about Frank Ernaga incorrectly stated that no Hall of Famers ever hit a home run their first time up. The Sporting News Record Book lists Earl Averill as a player who hit a homer his first time at bat and he's also listed as a member of the Baseball Hall of Fame.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Reader Byers is right. Earl Averill, Sr., was elected to the Hall of Fame last year by the Old Timers' Committee DESPITE the fact that he hit a homer his first time up in the majors.

League mat tourney opens tonight

Rich Wilhelm was a finalist at 119 pounds last year and enters action tonight at 28-0.

Meanwhile, Schaumburg fledgling Al Blount's slate is only slightly tarnished at 14-0-2. This 98 pounder is expected to compete at 105 and will be aiming at becoming the first in circuit history to ever claim a title as a freshman.

Other returning 1975 finalists are Jim Carlstrom of the Mustangs at 119, Bison Doug Browning at 145 and Cougar Tim Goergen at 145. Half a dozen other returnees — Saxon Mark Zeller, Cards Dan Kennedy and Dan Weber, Huskies Dan Lococo and John Haney and Mustang Pete Martin — all placed third in last season's meet.

Here's a weight-by-weight rundown of the action, which continues tomorrow at noon and concludes Saturday at 6 p.m.:

98 Pounds — The top seed could go to Schaumburg's feisty sophomore Dave Cooke although Hawk Darcy Rice, who finished fourth last year and owns a potent 20-3-2 overall mark now, is strong in contention along with Conant's Jon Gluck (25-1-2). Other good possibilities are Fremd's Jeff Arnold, Elk Grove's Jay Evans, Forest View's Mike Lucansky and Palatine's Mike Cullen.

105 Pounds — An interesting possibility for the finals would be a pair of certified 98 pounders in Saxon Blount and Arlington's Paul Preissing. They are the only two entries that Pirate Jeff Sheppard hasn't tied en route to a unique 2-2-5 league slate. Others in the running for the crown that Forest View's John Gross captured in '75 on the way to a state title are Viking Bob Dean, Mustang Scott Mattix, Falcon Jeff Lowe, Bill Lancaster of Elk Grove, Pat Kamins of Wheeling and Sheppard.

112 Pounds — A key weight because there is not a notably strong field. It figures to boil down to a finale of Arlington's Weber and Buffalo Grove's Tim Foley. Grenadier Steve King and Wildcat Ray Auger also have to be considered along with Schaumburg's Zeller and there certainly are others who could score some valuable points in this bracket.

119 Pounds — A whole flock of contenders pursue chief title threats Jim Carlstrom of Meadows and Ed Armstrong of Conant. Carlstrom (27-2) has been rarely threatened in conference action over nine bouts and would like to assume the mantle worn by brother Roy at this weight last year. Armstrong (22-3-1), if healthy again, is his chief barrier while Huskie Jim Watters and Pirate Lance Gackowski figure to battle for third. The Smith guys, Kevin of Arlington and Tom of Forest View, are other possibilities.

Mid-Suburban mat marks in scoreboard

126 Pounds — Wilhelm shouldn't have any major difficulties nailing down this title. Vike Doug McCarthy (17-6) or Redbird John Preissing (15-3-1) will probably be his foe in the finals. Also in the hunt are Pirate Dave Hanetho, Wildcat Dale Walters, Mustang Paul Hyneman and Hawk Mike Brewka.

132 Pounds — A very unusual race could unwind here inasmuch as possibly the favored entry does not have the best league record and could even miss a seed. Coming in with 7-1 loop marks are Mike Reif of Wheeling, Dan Kennedy of Arlington, Brian Regan of Conant and Greg Thomson of Buffalo Grove. Hersey's Lococo is only 5-1 although he does sport the best overall mark at 21-1. To further complicate the matter Reif has beaten Lococo, Thomson has beaten Reif and Lococo has bettered Thomson. Pick one.

138 Pounds — Another fairly weak division. John Carpenter of Elk Grove is undoubtedly the frontliner with excellent 19-2 credentials and an unblemished 8-0 loop slate. Hersey's Brett Benz, Conant's Ron Burhite and Arlington's John Whitnell are in hot pursuit but after that the competition drops off considerably.

145 Pounds — Combat at this weight will be most intense. Conant's Goergen, Bison Browning, Hoffman's Chad McCreary, Mustang Martin, and Hersey's Rick DeWar all have about an equal shot at the blue ribbon and Terry Sullivan of Palatine and Tom Andersen of Forest View are not too far off the pace.

155 Pounds — A nifty battle for runnerup honors figures to shape up while Jim Thomas of Hoffman Estates rolls steadily to the title. The participants vying for second place include Jim Harrington of Meadows, Jim Popp of Palatine, Russ Pollard of Fremd, Dave Pearlman of Wheeling and Bob Fechtner of Buffalo Grove.

167 Pounds — Any one of over half dozen grapplers could wind up on top in this wide open class. The list of possible champs covers Brian De Wyze of Palatine, Hawk Tom Wisniewski, Mustang Ted Tyk, Cougar Mike Weston, Prospect's Carl Schimmelman, Curt Rathje of Wheeling and Hersey's Steve Mack.

185 Pounds — A quartet of wrestlers stand out in this field and will probably tack down the first four slots. What order they finish in makes for an exciting bracket. Bison Brian Gibbons will probably net the top seed while Gary Bolger of Schaumburg goes in second rated. The other two are Gren Wayne Stoltzman and Huskie John Haney.

Heavyweight — Wildcat Ken Kent was top seeded last year but fell considerably shy of his billing. This year the big junior will yield that number one position to standout John Petko of Palatine but could just possibly have a crack at regaining the ultimate status. Hazards in the way of both these entries include Knight Don Meyer, Hawk Walt Porter, Grenadier Mike Malone and Cougar Rich Johnson.

St. Viator wrestlers prepare for conference tourney at Holy Cross

Three St. Viator wrestlers will be returning to defend their league titles when Holy Cross hosts the Suburban Catholic Conference East tournament beginning at approximately noon Saturday.

The Crusaders are expected to successfully defend their own team title at the same time, by fending off threats from Carmel, Notre Dame and possibly the Lions as well. Viator fashioned only a 1-4 dual meet mark against SCC competition but should be able to count on good showings from several others in addition to their trio of titlists.

Lion champs are Tim Jordan at 119 (he won at 112 last year), Rich Somers at 138 (up from 132) and heavyweight Scott Zettek. In addition Scott Malouf, who placed third in '75, should earn a good seed at 105 after molding a 4-0-1 record in dual meet action.

Dan Yourg could also stir up some excitement for St. Viator at 185 but his chief threat will be defending champ Frank Majka of the hosts, who stopped Yourg 6-3 earlier in the campaign.

One other returning champion is Corsair John Torres back at 126. Notre Dame will be headed up by the Romano brothers, Rick who was second at 119 last winter, and Marc who was third at 155.

The finals will be launched at Holy Cross Saturday at approximately 7 p.m.

Predictions see Bison title

There's no need to run it off now.

Herald wrestling editor Keith Reinhard has worked out the 1976 Mid-Suburban conference meet on paper and Buffalo Grove is the winner . . . by two slim points.

Without calculating any of the bonuses to be gained by pin, major or superior decision, Paddock's mat man projected no team with more than 60 points. And that 60 was exactly the total he saw the Bison winning the crown with . . . while a surprising Wheeling unit pulled up in second place.

Palatine, scoring in 10 of 12 weight classes, was third in his predictions at 52. Here's the way he sees it, with champions noted in parenthesis:

Buffalo Grove (2) 60, Wheeling (1) 58, Palatine (1) 52, Arlington (1) 51, Hoffman Estates (2) 48, Hersey (1) 45, Conant 43, Rolling Meadows (1) 40, Elk Grove (1) 38, Schaumburg (1) 37, Fremd 28, Prospect 14, Forest View 10.

Warriors visit Glenbrook North

"Get ready for Friday. We're not out of it yet," said Maine West coach Gaston Freeman after his team dropped a 74-63 decision to league leading Niles West earlier this week.

Freeman may be a bit optimistic in light of the surging play of late by Niles West, who are 9-1 in Central Suburban League South play, two games ahead of the Warriors who are 7-3.

But the Warriors return to battle on the hardwood tonight when they travel to Glenbrook North for an 8 p.m. contest.

The first time the two clubs met this season on Maine West's floor, the Warriors jumped out to a quick lead and were never headed in a 52-45 win, the 500th career coaching win for Freeman.

Glenbrook North is 2-7 in league play. Maine West brings a 12-8 overall record into tonight's game.

Speed show jets into town

More than 300 vehicles, including Evel Knievel's Sky Cycle, will be on display at the International Amphitheatre for the three-day International Speed, Custom and Van Auto Show today, Saturday and Sunday.

Entries in this year's show include virtually anything on wheels, from customized minibikes to competition race cars, street rods, restored classic and antique cars and experimental "dream" cars. A new feature this year will be a special "Van America" section devoted exclusively to customized vans.

Evel Knievel's Sky Cycle, in its actual condition following the famed daredevil's attempt to soar across. Idaho's Snake River Canyon last year will be the featured attraction.

Other displays certain to draw attention include the $50,000 Redd Foxx Sanford & Son Salvage Wrecker and the Star Trek Coupe, an experimental high speed highway car capable of speeds over 200 m.p.h.

Entrants in the International Speed, Custom and Van Auto Show will be competing for over $20,000 in awards and prizes.

Show hours are today, 6-11 p.m., Saturday, noon to 11 p.m. and Sunday, noon to 9 p.m. Tickets are $4 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

Busy weekend in Mid-Suburban basketball

by ART MUGALIAN

Another big double-dip weekend of basketball is staring Mid-Suburban North teams squarely in the face, while in the South a three-way battle is developing into a one of those knock-down-drage-'em-out affairs.

Buffalo Grove (6-0) takes its one-game lead in the North division into games with Palatine Friday night and Fremd Saturday.

South-division leader Schaumburg (7-2) hosts Rolling Meadows Saturday night, second-place Conant (6-2) meets the Prospect Knights on Friday, and third-place Elk Grove (5-3) takes on the Knights Saturday.

For Buffalo Grove and Schaumburg, the season has boiled down to this: win the remainder of their MSL games and they've locked up division titles.

But there's still a lot of basketball left on the slate before either the Bison or the Saxons can begin making arrangements for the championship game.

On the North docket for tonight: Fremd (1-5) at Wheeling (3-3), Arlington (3-3) at Hersey (5-1), and Buffalo Grove at Palatine (0-6).

In the South division tonight: Hoffman Estates (1-6) at Rolling Meadows (3-5) and Prospect (3-5) at Conant.

Saturday night North action: Arlington at Palatine, Fremd at Buffalo Grove, and Wheeling at Hersey.

In the South Saturday: Rolling Meadows at Schaumburg, Forest View (3-5) at Hoffman, and Elk Grove at Prospect.

All games are scheduled to begin at approximately 8 p.m.

Hersey is pointing toward its big Friday the 13th rematch with Buffalo Grove, but before that the Huskies have to take on both Arlington and Wheeling, two teams (at 3-3) which haven't been mathematically eliminated from the conference race.

"We have to play them one at a time," said Hersey coach Roger Steingraber, who knows that a loss would just about crush the Huskies chances for a North title.

Coach Paul Grady's Bison haven't lost since they dropped a crossover game at Schaumburg almost four weeks ago. Buffalo Grove is trying to become the third MSL team in two years to go through an entire regular-season league schedule without a loss. Arlington and Prospect did it last year.

The South division of the MSL has shaped up into a dog fight involving Schaumburg, Conant, and Elk Grove. Elk Grove's upset of Schaumburg last Tuesday threw the division race into a real donnybrook.

The division championship may turn on the Conant-Schaumburg game Feb. 17, but before then some mighty serious basketball will be played, casting the other four South teams into the role of spoiler.

Rolling Meadows has games left with Schaumburg and Elk Grove, while Prospect gets to play all three contenders one more time. Hoffman and Forest View will each play another game with Conant and Elk Grove.

"You have to beat the teams ahead of you," said Hoffman coach Jerry Segebrecht, who welcomed the chance to go head to head with the leaders. "We're optimistic."

The Rolling Meadows Mustangs will try to duplicate their 71-59 win over Schaumburg the first time the teams met in December.

Prospect, meanwhile, has the opportunity to make amends for an otherwise frustrating season by dimming the title chances of both Conant and Elk Grove.

Huskies, Cards on radio tonight

The Mid-Suburban League North battle between Arlington and Hersey tonight will be broadcast live on WWMM-FM (92.7) starting at eight o'clock.

Bruce Blair of WWMM will call the plays with Bob Frisk of The Herald giving the color commentary as the Cardinals visit the Huskie gym.

Lions seek new start with journey tonight

It's a little late in the year to think about starting all over, but that's what's on the minds of the St. Viator basketball team and coach Ron Cregier.

The Lions from Viator travel tonight for an East Suburban Catholic Conference game at Carmel, a team which the Lions topped 72-70 in a wild and woolly contest earlier in the season.

The Lions seemed to finally be putting it all together going into last week's confrontation with league-leader Holy Cross. But things fell apart for Viator in the first half and the Lions were humbled by Cross, 58-46.

So now the team is putting that loss behind them and looking toward the state tournament, hoping they can recapture some of the consistent play that had them in their last five ballgames prior to Holy Cross.

In that five game string, St. Viator won three and lost two. Those two losses were by one point each to Palatine and powerhouse Marist.

The Lions won last time out against Carmel on a last second shot, after rolling up a 22-3 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Viator must again control the boards against the smaller Corsairs, as they did the first time out, pulling down 48 rebounds to 24 for Carmel. But the Lions this time must hold down Corsair scoring ace Tim Murrary, who after being held to one first quarter basket, hit for 34 points against the Lions last time out.

Viator is currently in fourth place in the ESCC with a 5-5 record. The Corsairs are 1-9 in league action and are in the cellar. Holy Cross and Marist are tied for the league lead with 9-1 marks.

Exmoor captures curling honors

Exmoor Country Club of Highland Park captured the Illinois State Junior Mixed Curling Championship.

The skip of the rink was Mike Brown, a senior at Prospect High School. Other members of the winning rink were Candy Warner of Lake Forest, vice skip, Mark Adams who attends special classes at Hersey High School and Wendy Wright from Glenbrook North. The rink posted four wins and one loss to win the title.

For the second year in row, Exmoor Country Club curling rink won the Illinois State Women's Curling Championship. Ann Brown of Arlington Heights is the vice skip on the rink. The rink will represent the U.S. Women's Curling Assn. Bonspiel in Virginia, Minn., beginning Feb. 10.

XII Winter Olympics

Young, in her last season of racing before retiring to get married, raced with a sore throat and used the event as a prep for her bid for the 500 gold on Friday.

The Detroit girl, who has held the world spinrt skating and cycling title at one and the same time, clocked 2:17.1 against the Olympic record 2:16.6 of Stepanskaya. Pre-race favorite Tatiana Averina was third.

"I was psyched up for the race but didn't really think I would do that well. I'm really excited about getting the silver. For me, it's unexpected and gives me encouragement and confidence to go into my favorite race (500) already having amedla," said Young who was watched proudly by her parents from the stands.

Leah Poulos of Northbrook, Ill., started fast but faded to finish sixth.

Klammer, 22, sped down 3,020-meters (9,910-feet) of the Patscherkofel Mountain in one minute, 45.73 seconds to win from defending champion Bernard Russi of Switzerland and Italy's Herbert Plank. He was third at the top half of the course, which dropped 870-meters (7,865-feet), but he was brilliant over the second half when he took every risk possible.

Even in downtown Innsbruck, which is a one-hour drive from the track, Austrians danced and hugged each other in the street. It was the first Austrian downhill victory since Egon Zimmermann won in 1964 when Innsbruck first staged the Winter Games.

Andy Mill of Aspen, Colo., finihsed a strong sixth, 1.33 seconds behind Klammer; Greg Jones of Lake Tahoe City, Calif., was 11th; Pete Patterson of Sun Valley, Idaho, was 13th and Karl Anderson of Greene, Maine, finished 22nd.

Mid-Suburban to hold final duels

by BOB GALLAS
Swimming Editor

The final dual meets of the year close out the 1975-76 Mid-Suburban League swimming season tonight. Wheeling (4-2) hosts Arlington (6-0), Rolling Meadows (0-6) travels to Buffalo Grove (3-3), Elk Grove (4-2) hosts Prospect (5-1) and Forest View (1-5) entertains Hersey (1-5).

Final league standings will be determined next week in the conference meet. Diving competition will be Wednesday night at the Buffalo Grove Aquadrome while swimming competition will be staged next Friday night at Arlington's Olympic pool.

On paper, the Knights from Prospect should win easily over host Elk Grove and solidify their grip on second place. But the Grenadiers of coach Pete Weber have had their eyes on this meet all year.

Early in the season, the Grens pulled out of a double dual meet with Maine West and Prospect, not wanting to swim against the Knights until later in the year.

A win for the Grens would pull them into a tie for second place with Prospect and virtually assure Arlington of the conference championship. Arlington sits alone atop the league with an unblemished 6-0 league mark and Prospect figures to be the only threat to the Cards at the conference meet next week. If the Knights win tonight, then finish ahead of the Cards in the conference meet, the championship is theirs.

Arlington, meanwhile, is heavily favored in its meet against Wheeling. The Wildcats from Wheeling have done well all year despite a lack of 'superstars.' But Arlington also lacks superstars and has been winning all season with its depth of talent.

Forest View hopes it can keep its momentum going after notching its first win of the year last week against Rolling Meadows. The Falcons of Forest View host Hersey at Olympic Pool in Arlington Heights. Both squads have 1-5 conference marks.

Buffalo Grove should break its losing streak as the Bison host winless Rolling Meadows. After starting out strong with a 3-0 conference mark, the Bison have lost three in a row to Wheeling, Prospect and Arlington.

All meets begin at 4:30 p.m.

Tague still No. 1 in 3

Hersey's Chris Tague has solidified his title as the state's best in three events, according to the latest list of top swimming times issued by the Illinois Swimming Association.

Tague now holds the distinction of being the sole state leader in the 100-, 200-and 500-yard freestyle events.

The pace is starting to quicken as state tournament time approaches. Several Herald area swimmers have dropped off the list of top 12 in each event since the last listing two weeks ago.

Six area tankers are still listed among the state's 12 best. Three relay teams from two schools are also listed.

Tague's time in the 100-yard freestyle of 49.1. 49.1 is only .1 faster than his two closest challengers. The entire field in the 100 is cramped — only .5 of a second separates the first spot from the 12th spot.

In the 200-yard freestyle, Tague's time of 1:45.7 recently moved him out of a tie for first with Hinsdale Central's Matt Robertson and into sole possession of the top ranking.

Tague also strengthened his dominance in the 500-yard freestyle. Tague knocked two seconds of his time since the last ratings, turning in a 4:43.7, which beats his nearest competitor, Hinsdale Central's George Tidmarsh, by exactly four seconds.

There was one newcomer to the list from the area. Prospect's Tom Cole placed 11th in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 55.5. Tom Stahnke of Rolling Meadows moved up from ninth to seventh in that event with a time of 54.5.

Stahnke, a junior, is also tied for fourth statewide in the 50-yard freestyle, moving up from a tie for ninth with a time of 22.7 in the event.

Others rated as the state's best is Mark Rohl of St. Viator who is tied for 10th in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 49.6. Doug Peonski of St. Viator moved up from eighth to third in the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 57 seconds flat. Spencer Gilchrist of Prospect is eighth in the backstroke with a time of 58.3.

Both of St. Viator's relay teams are still among the state's best. In the medley relay, the Lions dropped from fifth to seventh, though they improved their time from 1:44.8 to 1:44.0. Viator is tied for third with Fenwick in the freestyle relay with a time of 3:22.0, to move up from seventh place.

Prospect's medley relay team is rated 12th statewide with a time of 1:45.9 in that event.

Yearly salary: $2.00

In this age of professional golf with its championship purses of $40,000, it is humbling, and perhaps instructive, to look at the case of Paul Runyan.

In terms of money, Runyan was golf's answer to Jack Nicklaus in 1934. He led every other player on the tour with $6,767, roughly equivalent to an eighth place finish in the Doral Open today.

But by the time Runyan finished paying expenses such as traveling, hotels and caddy fees he had shelled out $6,765. How he invested, or spent, his $2 annual profit is not recorded.

Fremd defeats Hoffman despite late surge, 60-51

(Editor's Note: One in a series of articles featuring area girls' basketball teams.

by PAUL LOGAN

The Hoffman Estates Hawks turned in a real strong final quarter, but it wasn't enough as the hosting Fremd Vikings captured the Mid-Suburban League girls' cross-over basketball game Thursday night, 60-51.

Hoffman coach Pat Carothers was fairly pleased with her team's showing, but added, "If my team gets mad someday and a little more aggressive, I'll really have a team."

Fremd, which upped its record to 4-0, jumped out to a 16-4 lead with a tough full court person-to-person press as well as a one-on-one half court defense. Carothers said she had never seen what the boys' teams refer to as a "man-to-man" before. "We couldn't run our offense at all," she said.

The Vikings' demoralizing "woman-on-woman" defense took away the usually fine outside shooting of Hoffman's top three gunners — Clare Dowling, Tracey Farrish and Julie Ruh.

Fremd widened the margin to 29-12 early in the second period as Viking coach Carol Plodzien freely substituted. She termed the game an "experimental night. I wanted to give the bench a lot of experience."

Plodzien had her talented team switching off and on from person-to-person to zone defense. "It's (the "woman-to-woman") is going to take a lot of work. They've got a lot to learn."

Fremd enjoyed a comfortable 36-19 lead at intermission thanks to the superb play of Connie Bruns. The junior guard hit on seven shots in the first half and drew the praise of her coach. "She was beautiful tonight, just beautiful," said Plodzien of Bruns' overall outstanding game both offensively and defensively. "And she said she was sick, too."

Twice in the second half the Hawks made a move at the Vikings. They outscored the winners 9-0 in the opening of the third quarter, forcing Fremd to rush starters Bruns, Heidi Giesler and Colleen Cannon back into the lineup. Three quick baskets by Bruns cooled the comeback.

Dowling helped rally her team in the final quarter, scoring 12 of her game-high 21 points. However, Hoffman had 6 free throw attempts, hitting on just 13 of 30 for the game, which hurt its rally.

"Hoffman had hustle," said Plodzien. "They never gave up. They had a good attitude."

Bruns led Fremd with 20 points with Giesler scoring 14. Lisa Jaworski scored 12 behind Dowling with Farrish having nine.

Peggy Hamill led Fremd with six rebounds with Kathy Uhrich and Kathy Pfaender having five each. Dowling pulled down nine rebounds with Lisa Jaworski having six and Michan Foster taking five.

In other action, Wheeling defeated Hersey, 55-39; Conant hammered Lake Park, 51-20; and Sacred Heart won its first game of the year stopping Schaumburg, 44-30.

(See scoreboard for statistics on all games.)

Falcon girls dominate list of top bowlers

Mid-Suburban League champion Forest View heads the list of top girl bowlers who won medals for this season's top performances.

Three Forest View Falcon stars finished 1-2-3 in the top averages category. Judy Pleickhardt finished with a 163 with Nancy Lachus having a 162 and Julie Mathews tied for third with Kim Williams of Rolling Meadows with 159. Prospect's Lorene Parsons was fifth with a 158.

Lachus also rolled the top series, coming in the final match of the season — a 574. She was followed by Arlington's Sharon Grasch — 571, Buffalo Grove's Rhonda Maro — 564, Parsons — 559 and Prospect's Mary Jo Lenga — 559.

Capturing high game honors was Williams with a 222. Then came Parsons — 221, Lachus — 218, Maro — 216, Forest View's Linda Desrosiers — 215 and Fremd's Pam Leckner — 215.

(See the top 10 performers in each category in the scoreboard.)

CDTA job goes to Janet French

Janet French, who competes out of River Trails Tennis Center, Mount Prospect, and runs a household of six players, has been elected executive director of the three-county Chicago District Tennis Association.

Mrs. French, an Elmhurst resident, succeeds Claranelle Morris of Chicago, who has resigned after four years to accept a position with Madison Square Garden in New York.

A market researcher with Proctoer & Gamble and Market Facts during her business career, Mrs. French comes from a long line of tennis enthusiasts. Her husband, Paul, is currently ranked No. 2 among District 45-and-over players. Her mother has played for more than 50 years. Her father, who made the family home in Chicago's Hyde Park neighborhood, was treasurer of the Chicago Tennis Patrons. Daughter Ann, a nationally ranked badminton player, daughter Linda and son Martin have appeared several times in local rankings. Mrs. French herself has been ranked in both singles and doubles and is a member of the U.S. Professional Tennis Association.

The CDTA is a federation of more than 100 clubs, schools and park districts which supervises tournament play and junior development in the metropolitan area.
